MOMENT OF TERROR: Sam Greeley was enjoying a refreshing dip in the Brazilian jungle when a hungry alligator went in after him.

Wife photographs husband just before gator eats him!

By T.J. TANNER
In Belo Horizonte, Brazil

The last photograph that Janet Greeley took of her husband also pictured a terrifying guest — the blood-thirsty alligator that attacked and killed Sam Greeley a split second later!

"I was concentrating on Sam — I didn't even see the alligator," a still-grieving Mrs. Greeley told reporters. "By the time I snapped the picture it was already too late.

"The alligator was all over him and I'll never forget his screams. It was terrible, awful. Oh God, it was a nightmare come true."

The tragic drama unfolded while the Greeleys were camping on the banks of the Velhas River. After two days of roughing it Greeley decided to refresh himself and jumped in. Mrs. Greeley was snapping pictures when the 11-foot gator crept into view. The woman said she didn't even notice the monster until it latched on to her husband's shoulder and pulled him down.

"I screamed and cursed and almost jumped into the water to help but deep down inside I realized there was nothing I could do," said Mrs. Greeley, 31.

"I sat on the riverbank for an hour or so, waiting for Sam to come back. I wasn't crying because I was numb."

Wildlife officers eventually found the woman and began a search for the gator straight-away.

They recovered Greeley's forearm — with a cheap, windup watch still ticking on the wrist — about 50 feet from the creature, which was shot and killed. "I don't know if I'll ever get over what happened," said Mrs. Greeley. "Sometimes I just look at the picture and think: 'This is unreal.' "

WIDOW Janet saw the attack.

He was frozen after dying in 1936 — now he's enjoying life

DEFROSTED ICE MAN IS MARRYING HIS NURSE!

Charlie Foster was frozen solid in a block of ice for 54 years before doctors miraculously brought him back to life. Now he's taking a first step toward making up for the years he missed — by getting married!

Last week the American-born "Ice Man" appeared at a news conference to announce that he will wed his 29-year-old nurse Margot Abend in June. He plans to live with his bride in Dresden, Germany, where his frozen body was found in a lab nine months ago.

"I was born in 1901, but I have the mind and body of a 35-year-old man," said Foster, whose wealthy family arranged for him to be flash-frozen after his death 55 years ago. "My health is excellent and I look forward to being a husband and father.

"I am deeply grateful for the opportunity to go on with my life and I want to live my remaining years to the fullest. My doctors say they see no reason why I can't live a normal life span."

The frozen body of Foster was discovered last September along with 13 other bodies in a Dresden laboratory once used by experts in cryogenics. Records showed that he had died in 1936 of a heart ailment when he was 35 years of age and his family had him preserved in a frozen state.

Although other bodies in the lab were in various states of decay, Foster was still solidly frozen when he was found. Scientists believed that with modern medical techniques they could revive him and save his life — and incredibly, they succeeded.

"His revival was much like a child who has lapsed into unconsciousness after being in cold water for an hour or so," said Dr. Al Schummer. "His body temperature was below zero, but we were able to bring it back to a normal 98.6 without severe brain damage.

"We repaired the heart blockage that killed the man originally and he is now in excellent health. We see no reason why he shouldn't marry and have children. Chances are good he'll live a long and productive life."

Foster, who appears energetic and mentally alert, plans to work for businesses marketing products to the U.S. He has money set aside for him by his family at the time he was frozen and is well-off, he said at his news conference.

"I realize that there is a lot of curiosity about me and about what happened to me," the bespectacled survivor said. "But I would like to retire from the public eye now.

"I am still available to Dr. Schummer for scientific research, but I will no longer be available to the press. My future wife and I request that you respect our privacy."

Iowa professor's bizarre plan to turn Earth into the

BLOW THE MOON TO SMITHEREENS!

'We will have spring all year long,' he says

By DICK DONOVAN
Staff writer

A respected scientist has come up with a far-out but workable plan to transform planet Earth into a global paradise — by blowing up the moon!

Iowa State University mathematics professor Alexander Abian believes that nuking the moon and letting part of it — or ALL of it — fall into the Pacific Ocean would turn Earth into a Garden of Eden where no one goes hungry.

Allowing gravity to pull moon chunks into the Pacific would push our planet into a more favorable alignment with the sun and "greatly improve the ecology and the quality of life on our planet," Dr. Abian told The NEWS.

"These changes would allow a more even distribution of the sun's rays," he explained. "We could stop brutal winters and scorching summers. The Earth would have springtime all year long.

"Abundant crops would begin to grow where today there is only desert sand. People would spend more time outdoors and be healthier. Our planet would be an idyllic place to live."

Earth now has a 66.5-degree tilt relative to the plane of its orbit. It's this tilt that causes the seasonal changes in the northern and southern hemispheres.

When the northern end of Earth is tilted toward the sun, the most direct rays of the sun fall on the northern hemisphere and give us summer. At the same time, the southern half of Earth is receiving the sun's indirect rays and is having winter.

"That is not the ideal situation," Dr. Abian said. "By eliminating the tilt, the Earth would get an even distribution of sunlight.

"That would be ideal and would solve the enormous climatic and ecological problems which threaten mankind's very existence."

He said present technology and nuclear explosives are more than adequate to destroy all or part of the moon.

"The landing of a part, parts or the entire moon — especially in the Pacific Ocean, near the South Pole — is by far the most efficient technique for altering the tilt of the Earth," he declared.

He explained that the moon's gentle impact with the Earth would "kick" the South Pole just far enough to eliminate the tilt, thus putting both hemispheres in position to receive a constant amount of sunshine all year long.

"I can't predict when it will happen, but it seems inevitable that the genius of mankind will not tolerate being held forever hostage to Earth's existing orbit.

"I know some people think of me as a madman. But I don't mind that. People once laughed at Galileo and mathematician Johannes Kepler.

"But I am 100-percent certain that a change will be made.

"It has to happen."

THERE'LL be no more moonlight in Vermont — or anywhere else for that matter — if Professor Abian has his way. Do you think his plan would improve our quality of life? Send your thoughts to Moon Poll, c/o Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

DUI driver said he got drunk after accident

By SUSAN JIMISON

Bruno Basic told a judge he failed a drunk driving test because a kindly stranger gave him two drinks right after he had an automobile accident, elevating his blood alcohol levels just before the test.

The 46-year-old Canadian man went to the slammer anyway.

Basic said he left the scene of the 1989 accident and ran into a man carrying two bottles of liquor and a glass. The man poured him two 12-ounce drinks to calm him down, he testified. Judge Ernest West was impressed when the Kitchener, Ontario, man produced the kindly stranger as a witness.

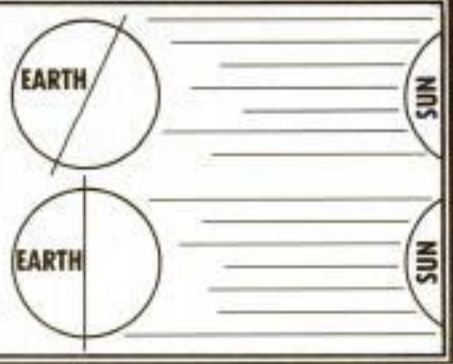
But he chose to believe three witnesses for the prosecution who said they saw Basic staggering drunkenly away from the crash scene.

Basic was convicted of impaired driving resulting in injury and given 20 days

Garden of Eden:

SCIENTIST Alexander Abian says we could turn our planet into an earthly garden where no one goes hungry — simply by blowing up the moon!

NOW the Earth tilts on its axis, causing seasonal changes. After the moon is blown up, our planet's axis will be straight up and down, with no tilt, and the ecological problems which threaten our existence will be solved, according to Professor Abian.



Gorilla saves zookeeper with CPR

RESCUED BY a smart ape: Ernst Dietrich.

By FRANZ REICH

Big ape learned kiss of life watching TV

A German zookeeper is alive and well thanks to a TV-watching gorilla named Gunther.

Gunther is the lone gorilla in a small zoo near Essen. Zoo officials put a TV set in his cage 18 months ago to keep him from being lonely and bored.

"His favorite shows were American action programs like Emergency and Rescue One," reported a zoo official.

One morning earlier this month, zookeeper Ernst Dietrich was cleaning Gunther's cage and suddenly had a heart attack.

"The pain came on so fast," Dietrich said. "I screamed once and then I must have passed out. The next thing I remember is waking up while I was lying flat on the floor of Gunther's cage.

"He's pounding on my chest with those huge fists — thump! thump! — one after another," Dietrich said.

Other zoo workers, alerted by Dietrich's scream and Gunther's howls, ran to the cage, pulled Dietrich out and called for paramedics.

"At first, they thought Gunther was attacking me," Dietrich said. "I had to explain that he had saved my life!"

Zoo officials plan to reward Gunther with special desserts — his favorite: Six banana cream pies!

"Thank God we put that TV set in there," Dietrich said. "It's obvious Gunther learned CPR just by watching."

Dietrich's doctors theorize the gorilla saved the zookeeper's life.

"I think Gunther also applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation," Dietrich said. "While I was lying on the floor of his cage, I vaguely remember feeling his lips on mine. I feel like Gunther and I have been a lot closer since that incident," Dietrich said.

DO-GOODER GUNTHER, a massive gorilla, learned CPR by watching television.

Space aliens write message on man's chest — in secret code

KIDNAP victim Joao da Silva.

A 45-year-old Brazilian man says he was taken aboard a UFO by alien beings, stripped naked, examined on a table, then left unconscious in his backyard — with bizarre markings on his chest.

Joao Valerio da Silva says the terrifying abduction occurred about 2 a.m. on March 19.

Three hours later his wife found him lying nude and unconscious outside their home in Botucatu, with the strange hieroglyphic-like marks on his chest and his clothes stacked neatly in a pile beside him.

That morning, da Silva recalled, he woke up feeling unusually thirsty. When he got out of bed to get a drink, he saw a blinding bright beam of light shining down on his yard from an oval object hovering about 3 feet above the ground.

"An elevator or ramp-type apparatus descended from the object," da Silva said. "Then I saw a humanlike form about 5½ feet tall, completely covered with a rubberlike uniform.

"I could make out eyes and a mouth, but I didn't see a nose or any fingers.

"Everything was happening very fast. In a split second this being escorted me to the elevator or ramp.

"Suddenly I found myself in a strange room illuminated by light that seemed to be coming from the walls.

"By the time I arrived in this room I was totally nude. Two beings were talking to each other, in a language I could not identify.

"Suddenly I found myself stretched out on a bench with those two beings looking on. One put some type of oil over me and the other had a twig-shaped metal-looking object in his hand.

"And that's all I can remember. The next thing I knew I was dizzy and my wife was taking care of me," said da Silva.

"I found him outside naked and flat on his back. He was very cold," said his wife Anzeil.

"My children and I carried him inside and put him in the tub. As I gave him a warm bath, he slowly came to his senses. He told us that he had been abducted by extraterrestrials."

Botucatu Police Chief Valdereside Cavalari said that under interrogation da Silva stuck to the same story, in all details. "The marks on his body are the real puzzle," Chief Cavalari said. "They are faint, but they are definitely there. They remind me of an illustration in a history book of a piece of stone with hieroglyphic symbols."

Australian bushmen beat cops — with frozen kangaroo tails

AUSTRALIA'S FULL of kangaroos, but angry aborigines bought their frozen kangaroo tails from a food store.

Aborigines EAT weapons after bizarre attack!

By JOE BERGER

A horde of hopping-mad aborigines ambushed three shocked cops and beat the living tar out of them — with frozen kangaroo tails!

Then the wild-eyed Australian bushmen threw a barbecue — and ate the evidence.

"It may sound humorous, but getting hit with a frozen kangaroo tail hurts just as bad as getting clobbered with a billy club," said hobbling lawman Lanny Parks.

"Those things were at least three feet long and hard as a rock."

The unsuspecting policemen were attacked when they stopped to remove a slap-happy aborigine from a busy roadway in the remote Australian outback.

"The man was drunk and sitting right out in the middle of a highway, just daring the cars to hit him," Patrolman Parks told a reporter.

"We tried to get him off the road and he put up a fuss.

"I guess his native buddies were restless because the next thing we knew, here they all came."

More than a dozen ornery aborigines roared out of a nearby food store, wielding the kangaroo tails like war clubs.

"These people eat their 'roo tails morning, noon and night — so I guess they had a freezer full of them in the store," Parks said. "And they started hammering us with them before we had a chance to duck.

"It felt kind of strange getting hit with somebody's lunch, but after a couple of whacks, it hurt too much to laugh about it.

"We were lucky to get to our car and get out of there with nothing more than cuts and bruises."

As the black-and-blue men in blue sped to the nearest hospital to get patched up, the tickled aborigines threw a party and wolfed down their weapons.

But the celebration was short-lived.

Cranky cops came back the next day and hauled six of the rowdies off to jail on assault charges.

VICTORIOUS aborigines celebrate their recent cop-wacking with a kangaroo tail feast.

Beat stress with sex!

If you want to get rid of the tension that's been tying your stomach in knots, make a little love.

Men's Health magazine says sex produces a profound sense stress reliever of all. The worst tension reliever is booze, the magazine says, because it can interfere with sleep and make you even more stressful.

No more starvation diets for me!

I lost 75 pounds with the help of EASY GLIDER*

AS SEEN ON TV

What you see above is an illustration of actual footage you've seen of Keith on TV showing his dramatic 75 pound weight loss. How did he do it? Simple! "I lowered my caloric intake by reducing fat and sugar and glided away the pounds on my Easy Glider while watching football!" Keith Allen*

You've starved yourself on a 1000 calorie a day diet, suffered brutal hunger pangs...and all you've lost is the will to go through it all for one more day.

Well, cheer up! Now there's a better way to take off that extra weight. And all it takes is just a little determination...and Easy Glider!

The secret is Easy Glider—the exercise that can help you lose 10...20...even 75 pounds—while watching TV!

You can lose weight on your own schedule...even while listening to the stereo or watching T.V.! Just make up your mind to lower your caloric intake by eating fewer fats and sugars. And then, step on the glider pads, set the tension control for desired resistance, and you're off on the road to fitness and a slim, toned body.

Better than bikes...racquetball...even jogging!

An aerobic workout on Easy Glider is one of the most efficient ways to burn up calories and achieve total fitness. It simulates cross-country skiing, which some experts tell us is the world's #1 fitness exercise. Easy Glider's continuous motion maintains your aerobic heart rate, unlike racquetball's start and stop workout.

Exercise bikes focus on the lower body while Easy Glider works all the major muscle groups, including arms, legs, shoulders, buttocks and even your stomach. Its smooth, fluid, gliding action makes it far less stressful on the body than jogging. This one simple exercise strengthens the heart, tones the muscles, burns calories and improves stamina.

Easy Glider gives YOU the workout...not your wallet!

Best of all, you can lose weight...without paying the high price! Easy Glider is priced at an amazing $59.85...a real bargain when you consider that other ski simulators cost as much as $500. How can we do it? Quite simply, Easy Glider is a model of efficiency. Thousands of hours were spent on its design and engineering. The roll formed steel frame will take years of use. The result: a superior product at a fraction of the price!

Try it for 60 days at no risk—and experience the weight loss for yourself!

Remember...Keith Allen lost an amazing 75 pounds by watching what he ate and gliding away the pounds on his Easy Glider. Now it's your turn!

You risk nothing when you order. As a credit card customer, your credit card will be billed in 3 easy payments of just $19.95 each. We won't bill your final payment until you've tried Easy Glider for 60 days. If you don't see weight and fitness benefits, you can return it within 60 days for a full refund (minus shipping and handling)—no questions asked. Plus, Easy Glider is covered by a 1 year limited warranty on parts.

So why starve yourself one day longer? Lose 25...50...75 pounds the effective and convenient way— right on your own schedule—when you order Easy Glider. Today!

Savvy secretary hasn't paid for a single meal in 3 years

Meet the world's biggest freeloader

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Renee Snyder has found the secret to a happy life — free food and no dirty dishes to wash!

Miss Snyder, 31, has been eating out three meals a day, seven days a week, for more than three years and she hasn't paid for a single one of them!

By DAVID W. ROSS

"America's full of free food," she said. "You just have to know where to look."

Miss Snyder, who has lived here for the past eight years, has been called the Queen of the Freeloaders and she's certainly proud of it!

So proud, in fact, she invited our NEWS photographer to accompany her on her gate-crashing rounds of free eats.

"You just have to know where to go and when," she said.

"In the morning I drop by a bank or a department store having an early bird sale," she said.

"They usually have danish or doughnuts and coffee free for the taking.

"For a mid-morning snack or lunch, I visit the deli section of a supermarket or two. They're always putting out free samples."

A legal secretary for a high-priced law firm, Miss Snyder said she got tired of going home after work, fixing a meal just for herself and then looking at a sink full of dirty dishes.

"I've got better things to do with my time off," she said.

After work, happy hour is Miss Snyder's happiest hour — for a $1.65 club soda she can snack her way several laps around any bar's complimentary buffet.

"After that, I go home, change clothes and then really get down to some serious free food," she said. "There are pre-theater buffets, art gallery openings, even special fund-raising socials.

"What's another mouth at the buffet line? If you're dressed up, nobody notices me and nobody cares," she said.

Miss Snyder says her favorite food stops are seafood festivals and ethnic celebrations. "I can eat all day at one of those events and never taste the same food twice," she said.

"I don't know why homeless people don't do this," Miss Snyder said.

"There's so much free food out there.

"If they'd just dress up in some good clothes, they could have all the meals they want," she said.

'America's full of free food — you just have to know where to look,' says California gal

PROUD Renee shows off her refrigerator.

QUEEN OF THE FREELOADERS Renee Snyder shares a couple of her tricks with NEWS readers: Helping herself to some danish at a bank reception, left, and enjoying a free buffet, above.

Drugs can turn yawns into sex thrills, say docs

By SUSAN JIMISON

Worried docs have issued a warning about the side effects of certain tranquilizers, cautioning that some patients who combine the drugs with painkillers believe they are being sexually molested and others have orgasms when they yawn!

The side effects were discovered when experts investigated patients' reports that they had been sexually abused by dentists or doctors and found it simply couldn't have happened. Dr. John Dundee of Belfast, Ireland, discovered instead that patients on the drugs to bizarre sexual hallucinations when given painkillers.

In a report on his findings, Dr. Dundee warned the American Society of Anesthesiologists that another drug, clomipramine, also had strange sexual effects.

He cited a 1987 Canadian study in which a number of patients told their doctors that the drug — which is used to treat obsessive-compulsive disorders — caused them to have orgasms whenever they yawned.

"One female patient sheepishly admitted that she hoped to take the medication on a long-term basis because she had noted that Brando's a walrus!

— says expert . . . and John Goodman is a pig, Joan Rivers is an ostrich, Tina Turner is a lion . . .

LIKE the bulldog, squat Danny De Vito wouldn't give up — and he became a star.

BIRDS of a feather: Ostrich and Joan Rivers are both bigmouthed blondes.

Have you ever noticed how much your favorite stars resemble members of the animal kingdom? "It's no accident," says Dr. Clive Haversham, celebrity-watcher and author of The Animal in You.

"We all have animals of one kind or another in our family past. Based on their onscreen character, their looks and appeal, these are the animal equivalents of some of the stars."

● Julia Roberts — "Julia has so much of the colt in her, and not just the legs. Her gentle face and large soft eyes are decidedly coltish."

● Jay Leno — "The lantern-jawed comic bears an uncanny resemblance to a pelican on the prowl for fish. Jay scans the media in the same way, looking for funny stories."

● Danny De Vito — "Danny has bulldog written all over him.

"He's squat, he's tough and he won't give up, ever."

● Joan Rivers — "Obvious ostrich-like qualities.

"Her mouth is open a lot and she flits from subject to subject. When things get too rough, Joan is not above putting her head in the sand."

● John Goodman — "Roseanne's roly-poly TV husband looks like a lovable barnyard porker. This is no domesticated potbellied pig. We're talking major oinker here."

● Kim Basinger — "When Kim's lips were smaller she resembled a fawn. Now, however, she looks like a kissing years Brando is becoming a wounded, bellowing walrus. Ice cream and family tragedy are taking their toll on Marlon's once-magnificent physique."

● Tina Turner — "Tina comes on like a lion, although her wild and crazy mane of hair is a wig. She stalks the stage like a big cat." — Special to Weekly World News

Don't think George Hamilton was always as suave as a Gucci loafer. The world's most ardent worshipper of the golden orb, that's the sun, was a buck-toothed nerd as a youth.

"I was a gangling Jerry Lewis kind of kid," says George.

"And then my mother moved to Palm Beach. All you had to have was a dinner

Acrobatic rocker David Lee Roth doesn't jump at the chance to date models. "In my experience, sex in its lowest form is making love to a model," says Roth. "Models are books for people who don't read. Pretty people are pretty boring." — London Daily Mail

Crazy Tracey Ullman got a bitch of a review from The New York Times theater critic Frank Rich for her performance in The Big Love, a one-woman comedy. "The actress looks like Tammy Faye Bakker and sounds like Lucille Ball taking a wild stab at impersonating Dolly Parton," wrote Rich.

"I guess it didn't help to sleep with him twice, did it?" deadpanned Tracey. "I think the theater cat must have done a pooh on his seat or something." — New York Post

Sexy Sean Connery knows why he never has any problems with people. "I've got the b____s to tell them, 'You're a bore, clear off.' I don't think I'm difficult, as some imagine. I'm only difficult with idiots." — London Express

Macho Mel Gibson has a low boiling point, but the hunk who played Hamlet is working on it. "Things get to me in the worst sort of way. Someone will be nasty on the phone. They hang up in your ear. Then you call and say, 'Give me the manager,' and you try to get them fired."

"Then you ask yourself, 'Why am I causing that person trouble? They probably found out they had cancer today.'" — Parade magazine

FRANTIC family man Cooper Lee made the ultimate sacrifice in birth control.

MAN PERFORMS DO-IT-YOURSELF VASECTOMY — IN THE KITCHEN!

By LAUREL BOWIE

Desperate dad Cooper Lee was so scared his weary wife Pam would get pregnant with their tenth child that he bought a scalpel and some surgical thread — and performed a vasectomy on himself!

"I couldn't afford to pay a doctor to do it without taking food out of my babies' mouths, and I didn't want to do that," said the struggling Los Angeles janitor.

"But I was terrified of what might happen if I didn't have the operation. So I just went ahead and did it on my own — and believe it or not, it worked like a charm."

The frantic father came up with his do-it-yourself surgery scheme shortly after pooped Pam gave birth to her ninth baby in eight years, earlier this year.

"We could barely feed the kids we already had, and I knew we darn sure couldn't stand to have any more," courageous Cooper, 32, told a reporter.

"I also knew a vasectomy was a pretty simple operation that a doc could pull off in about 30 minutes. So I decided, what the hell, who needs a doctor?"

The determined dad spent four hours in a library reading up on the procedure, then stopped by a medical supply house to pick up the tools he needed.

And that night he informed his baby-making mate what he had in mind.

"She really flipped her lid," cool Coop recalled. "I was hoping she'd kind of help me out, you know, but she said she didn't want any part of that insanity. Besides, she said, all that blood would make her pass out."

So the gutsy janitor sterilized his scalpel, gave himself a shot of novocaine and turned his kitchen into an operating room.

"It hurt a lot, but I knew all I had to do was make a couple of little cuts and get in there and tie off those tubes," he said. "So I just gritted my teeth and did it.

"Then I sewed myself up, cleaned up the mess and told Pam to make me a sandwich."

The bizarre story came to light when the sure-handed hubby told his family physician about his feat and the shocked doc recounted the tale at a medical conference. "The doctor took a look at me when I went in for a checkup and he said I did a great job, that the surgery was a complete success," tickled Cooper recalled.

"Then he told me I never should have done it on myself because there are a lot of doctors around who'll do a vasectomy absolutely free.

"I just never thought I'd get anything from a doctor without paying through the nose, so I never bothered to ask anybody how much they were going to soak me."

Toilet paper is a lifesaver!

Five people were killed when two passenger trains collided, but hundreds of others survived — thanks to two carloads of toilet paper.

Investigators at Ciudad Serdan, Mexico, said the toilet paper being carried by one of the trains helped absorb the impact of the head-on collision.

Eyes have it

People think that watching television up close or in the dark damages eyes. In fact, new studies show that you can do both without damaging your eyes at all, Video Magazine reports.

YOU WILL HAVE SLIMMER, FIRMER HIPS, THIGHS AND WAIST TODAY THAN YOU DID YEARS AGO... AND—

You'll laugh at cellulite using only four precious minutes a day with this exacting tiny device.

Despite the fact that I eat "fattening foods" every single day, that you would never dare eat—because they would blow up your hips and your thighs and your waist like a balloon if you dared let them cross your lips.

And my face looks marvelous too, because I could feed it the foods it needed to keep smooth and firm and beautiful—at the same time I controlled my figure with brain-power instead of diet-power.

Just Look At My Hips. Do They Look Like The Hips Of A 51-Year-Old Woman?

Just Look At My Thighs. Do They Look Like The Thighs Of A 51-Year-Old Woman?

Just Look At My Waist. Does It Look Like The Waist Of A 51-Year-Old Woman?

And then think about this again for one second. I eat "fattening foods"—every single day—that you would never dare eat... because they would blow your hips and your thighs and your waist up like a balloon if you dared let them cross your lips.

And I mean truly "forbidden foods"—like pecan pie, and ice cream, and hollandaise sauce, and oodles of pasta, and french fries and potato chips... and (and I swear this is true) either one or even two candy snacks every single day.

Of course I balance these "fattening foods" against my own special protective diet. But even more important, I keep them from destroying my hips, or my thighs, or my waist by four precious minutes every day that let me laugh at cellulite... and laugh at bulges... and laugh at sagging flesh all the way to the photographer's studio.

But It Wasn't Always This Way. When I First Started Out Saving My Figure, I Had To Work—And I Mean Work—THIRTY Minutes A Day TO GET THE RESULTS I NOW GET IN LESS THAN FOUR!

You see, I make my living from how I look—all the way down, to me, my figure, as well as my face, determine how well I live.

And so I'm a professional at figure care, where you right now might have to consider yourself an amateur. Since I've worked year after year on figure research, to find exactly the easiest, and fastest, and most effective, and above all most permanent way I could come up with to keep those ugly bulges off my waist and hips and thighs.

When I started out twelve years ago, just after I saw the first terrifying "swelling and sags" begin to appear on my legs, I probably tried every exercise, and made every mistake, in the book.

I did sit-ups by the hundreds. Knee bends by the hour. Scissors, and leg-ups, and Yoga, and belly crawls, and Slim Wheels, and Effortless Exercisers, and all the rest. I almost worked myself into exhaustion. And I found out what you've had to find out too—that you can't run slow if you have to exhaust yourself into it. And who has the time, and the energy to keep at 30 minutes to 60 minutes a day, year after year?

But Then The Break-Through Came! I Found What I Call An "Exercise-Magnifier" That Lets MY BODY Get As Much Firming Effect From Four Minutes As I Used To Get From Twenty To Forty.

It was an ingenious little device, so simple that it took me less than one minute to learn how to use it like a professional.

It Was So Small That I Could Carry It In My Handbag—So That Even If I Was Called Away On A Surprise Overnight, I Would Never Have To Be Without It.

It was so easy that at first it felt like I was doing nothing at all. The first movement I tried with it was so soft and gentle, that I almost stopped completely then—because I thought something that effortless could never really do anything for me.

And then I kept going... and going... and going. And it felt so incredibly good that I had trouble stopping after the first four or five minutes. And then I stepped over to the mirror, and studied my figure—and knew that I was on to something BIG.

Because every firming movement I made with this little device—working against its resistance—seemed to give me the controlling power of TEN ordinary movements. I was literally magnifying my exercises. I was condensing my exercise time—so much in fact that I actually felt better and stronger and more full of energy AFTER I finished these exercises than before I began them.

So I Threw Away My Old Exercises. And I Use This Little Device—And Only This Little Device—To Exercise With For Four Minutes Every Day. AND MY BODY LOOKS LIKE THIS AT 51 YEARS AND 8 MONTHS.

And now I'd like to share it with you—because I know how hard it was for me to keep my hips, and waist and thighs sleek and firm before I discovered it.

But if you want to try it, you have to try it my way. It's important to give you the absolute best results. And here's what I have to ask you to do:

1) You have to promise me you'll use it for a full month. Since your figure is probably less firm than my own, you have to use it for four minutes in the morning, and four more minutes at night at the beginning. Then, when you get your figure back into shape, you can cut down to only four minutes a day from then on.

2) And finally, I'm so excited about this device, that I want to exact this pledge from you. After the first month—or the second or third, if you want more time to see how much firmer it will make you—I want you to write me, and tell me how your measurements have shrunk. If possible, I'd appreciate a before and after set of photos. Because I'd like to use some of these in future ads—to show other women like yourself that it just doesn't work for me—but it hopes for ALL America.

If I Use Your Story, Or Your Photos, In A Future Ad, I Will Be Most Happy To Pay You. That Way, We Both Benefit—And So Do Lots And Lots Of Other Women.

So that's my offer. I want you to give me 4 to 8 minutes a day of your time, and I want to borrow some of your money. In return I promise to give you a new figure—just as I've given one to myself, and kept it.

If my promise, and my little Exercise Magnifier, doesn't work for you, just send it back within three months, and I'll restore your money. And you can't lose in any case, since your body has to feel better, even if your dimensions don't come out exactly like mine.

But Look Again At The Photo On The Right. It Is Completely Unretouched. And I'm 51 Years Old. And I Eat Fattening Foods And Sweets Every Day.

I've found a way to the figure of my dreams. Why not use—at my risk—if it's also the way to the figure of your dreams.

BRING BERT BACK TO MISS AMERICA!

I'm madder than a beauty queen with a busted bra strap over a stupid column I wrote back in October of last year when I called the Miss America Pageant a dog show and long-time master of ceremonies Bert Parks a bumbling idiot!

MY AMERICA
By ED ANGER

Let's face it, folks — I was dead wrong.

Bert Parks may have botched a few lines during the 1990 pageant but he's still the best thing that ever happened to the Miss America contest. Nobody, and I mean nobody, sings Here She Comes, Miss America like good old Bert.

And now that young whippersnapper Gary Collins has jumped ship as the new master of ceremonies, it's time to bring the old crooner back!

So what if he gets mixed up and calls Miss Virginia Miss California and Miss Utah Miss Florida or so what if he walks onstage with toilet paper stuck to his shoe, for that matter.

He's STILL tops in my book!

But what makes me pig-biting mad at myself is that yours truly jumped on the Dump Bert bandwagon along with all those hotshot TV critics and prissy producers.

The only reason they jumped on old Bert is because he made THEM look bad, for Pete's sake. They couldn't have cared less about him humiliating himself in front of a live audience and millions of viewers at home.

But I never made a mistake that I couldn't fix, so I'm going to be the first to announce the Bring Back Bert campaign for this year's pageant.

And if those Miss America kingpins think I'm kidding, wait'll they get Bring Back Bert letters from about 4 million Ed Anger readers, by jiminey.

It'll be like those glorious 1950s again when Bert was king of the Miss America Pageant and Ike was President. Davy Crockett was tops on TV and Grace Kelly was America's sweetheart.

A living legend like Bert Parks deserves one last shot at the Miss America shindig — and we ought to help him get it!

BERT PARKS POLL

☐ YES: I agree with Ed, bring back Bert Parks as the Miss America master of ceremonies or I won't watch one minute of it on TV this year.

☐ NO: Bert Parks was put out to pasture and he ought to stay there.

Clip out and mail your vote to Ed Anger Bert Parks Poll, Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462. We'll see that pageant bigwigs know how you feel.

DEADLY DEMON OF THE DEEP — A moray eel like this one had a helpless

Diver bites deadly eel to free woman from its jaws!

By JACK ALEXANDER

A fearless scuba diver risked his life to rescue a woman from the powerful jaws of a moray eel by biting a chunk out of the monster's neck.

The huge demon of the deep — nearly 6 feet long and 22 inches around — had sunk its razor-sharp teeth into the wrist of Christine Gillot, 27, and was dragging her to a watery grave.

"There wasn't time to think. I tried to pry it loose but cut my hand," said Erol Ossahin, a diving instructor at Club Med on Moorea Island in the French South Pacific.

"I grabbed the moray in a bear hug and hung on for dear life. We wrestled around in the water — me, the moray and Christine. Blood was everywhere," Erol told The NEWS.

"The moray dove for the bottom in 45 feet of water taking me and Christine with him. I knew all the blood would attract sharks and we would be in for more serious trouble.

"I bit the sucker on the back of the neck as hard as I could and, thank God, he released his grip on Christine's left arm and swam away."

Other divers helped Erol get Chris-approached about 50 feet away. "Get in the boat — fast," he screamed to the other divers.

"The whole terrible experience only took about 15-20 seconds, but it seemed like an eternity," said Erol. "I've never been so scared in my life. I've never, ever seen a moray that big. Usually the ones around here are about 3 to 4 feet long."

Christine's left hand was virtually severed by the eel. She was flown by helicopter to nearby Papeete on the island of Tahiti.

"Surgeons reattached her hand, but it will be awhile before they know whether the operation will save it," said Erol, a 34-year-old Canadian who has been a diving instructor on the tiny island for three years.

"The moray came up on her from behind," he said. "She never even saw it. It was probably attracted by the gold bracelet she was wearing.

"There is no doubt in my mind Christine would have drowned. She only weighed about 110 pounds and the moray was dragging her to the bottom.

"I will probably never see another moray that big," Erol said.

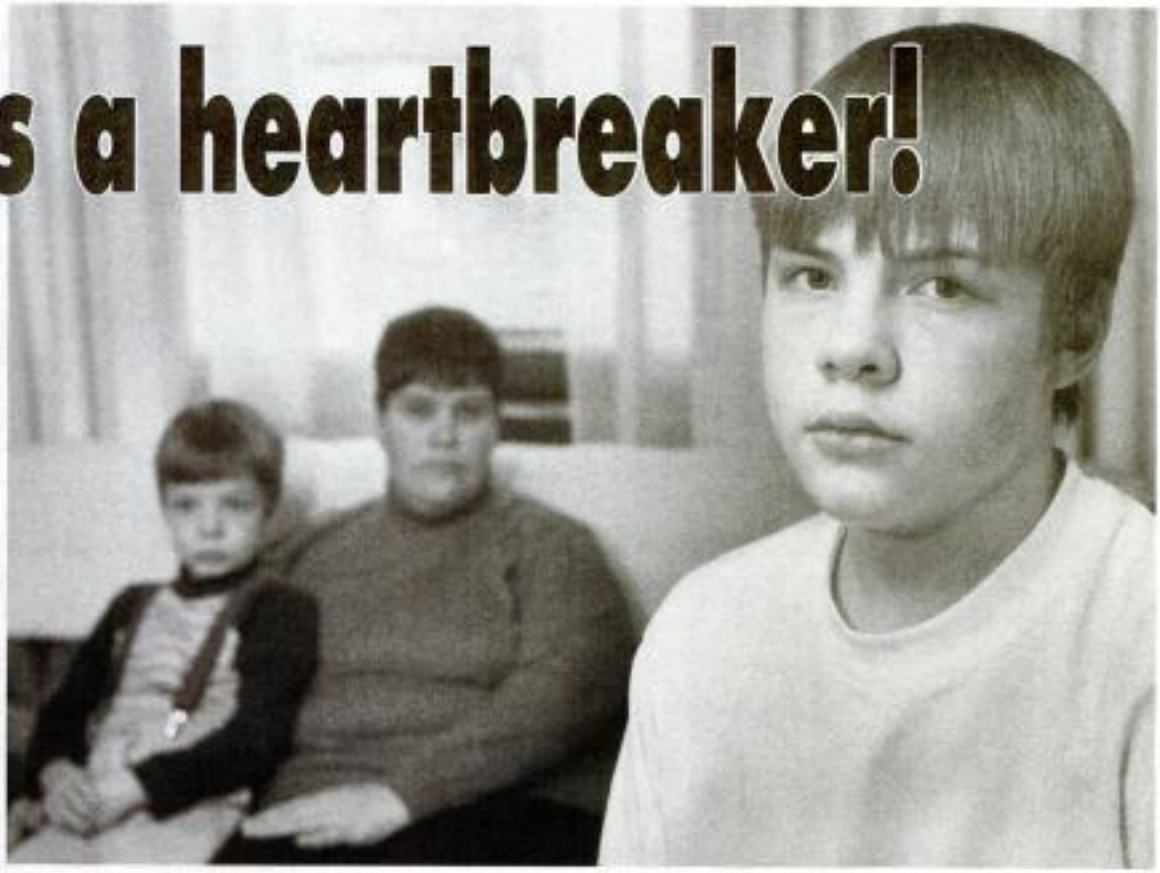
This is a heartbreaker!



BRAVE David, foreground, is back home with mom Marsha and brother Douglas, 6.

Kid runs away — so family will have enough to eat!

By DICK DONOVAN

With tears streaming down his cheeks, a boy of 13 made a leap into manhood when he ran away from home — so that his mom and kid brother would have food on the table, clothes on their backs and a roof over their heads!

Young David Bartley knew that running away from home meant his single mom would have one less mouth to feed on the skimpy welfare check that had just been slashed by a whopping $90 a month.

You see, having one less mouth to feed could be the difference between his mom paying the rent and being booted out on the street.

"I thought that if I left, my mom would have enough money for the rent," the brave youngster said. "I thought that with the extra money, she and my brother Doug could have a happy life."

And with that grown-up thought in his little-boy heart, David brushed aside his tears and walked away from his family's modest mobile home in rural Muskegon, Mich.

That same day, David dirtied his face and hands to make himself look like a homeless child. Then he climbed a chain link fence at Child Haven, a facility that cares for abused and neglected children.

With any kind of luck, he thought, he'd be accepted as just another orphan of the storm. It sure wasn't home, but he had learned early in life that beggars can't be choosers.

"He came to the door and he was soon brought in to me," Child Haven director Jonathan Rager told The NEWS. "I talked with him and he eventually told me what he had done.

"He wasn't concerned about himself at all. He just believed that his family couldn't make it if their welfare payments are cut. I tried to reassure him, but I couldn't. The state plans to make the cut."

Rager said David's mom was notified and she arrived within the hour to bring her son home. "They left arm-in-arm, crying their eyes out," Rager said.

"In fact, we were all crying when they left."

Marsha Bartley, who gets no money from the boys' father, said she gets $140 a month toward the $240 monthly rent and makes up the difference from welfare payments for living expenses.

"I just paid the rent for two weeks and I have $20 left," she explained.

"In two weeks, I'll pay the rent again and I'll have $20 left over.

"And now the state plans to cut my welfare payment by about $90 a month. That's what had David so worried. What he did, he did from his heart, not from his head."

Phony stripper takes it ALL off for the gals!

By MARTHA ATKINS

Cops are still trying to track down an elusive mystery man — who bares all in free strip shows!

So far, the good-looking guy, who poses as a stripper for a singing-telegram company, has walked into at least a half dozen businesses in the San Francisco Bay area and stripped down to the buff for his shocked female audiences.

"We want to expose this guy," said Ed Gormley, president of Eastern Onion Entertainment Delivery Service, the company the rogue stripper had a number of complaints from angry customers who've called and said someone from our company has come in and stripped down until he was naked.

"Even when I tell them he couldn't have been from our company because our strippers leave their bikinis on, they still think we sent him. He's bad for business."

The bizarre incidents came to the attention of Pleasanton, Calif., police after women from two local businesses called to complain.

businesses with only female employees, goes in and says someone's purchased a singing telegram for them.

"Then he turns on his tape player and starts to do his thing. In one incident, the woman told him to leave and he did.

"But the other time, the women didn't know what to think. It wasn't until the guy started doing his act that they realized what was going on and told him to leave.

"He stripped down to a pair of see-through briefs that left nothing to the imagination."

So far, police haven't had any luck in identifying the mystery stripper and aren't sure what to make of him.

"Witnesses say he's well-built and very nice-looking," said Sgt. Fraser. "The only thing I can figure is he must be a nut who gets his kicks from taking off his clothes."

HUMAN ANT FARM

Girl has nest of insects living behind her right eye!

HORRIFYING! Gittu's right eye is home to a nest teeming with ants.

Doctors are desperately trying to save a little girl with a life-threatening problem: She has a nest of ants living behind her right eye!

The creatures crawl in and out of the 12-year-old's right eyelid in a continuous stream, doctors say. Attempts to eliminate the insects using chemicals and surgery have failed.

By SUSAN JIMISON

"As far as we know, there has never been another case like this," said Dr. Anita Panda, one of several physicians treating the girl at the Institute of Medical Sciences in New Delhi.

"The child's vision is normal and her X rays and brain scans are normal.

"Yet there is a constant line of ants emerging from the girl's lower right eyelid. It causes the poor child tremendous pain. It's absolutely baffling."

Doctors first learned about the little girl — identified only as Gittu — when she came to the Institute complaining of excruciating pain in her right temple and irritation of the eye.

When eye surgeons examined her, they found the body of a dead black ant lodged in her eyelid.

The girl's family told them that the ants had first begun emerging from Gittu's eye several weeks before, about the time her pain began.

"On closer examination, we could see holes in the lower lid and small tunnels that disappeared behind the eye," Dr. Panda said. "We did exploratory surgery and found deposits of eggs lining sections of the eye.

"What's more we actually discovered that there were two species of ants inhabiting this child's head, not just one. Yet we couldn't find any nest where they were coming from. And we didn't want to destroy the eyeball by cutting further."

Using mild chemicals, doctors have succeeded in reducing the stream of ants pouring out of Gittu's eye from around 60 a day to only six or seven.

But the child still complains of pain and her physicians worry that if the insects aren't destroyed, they might attack her brain.

"We believe the ants first infested Gittu when she slept out on a veranda on her grandmother's porch a month or so ago," Dr. Panda said. "We think the insects burrowed into her eye, moving through the soft tissue of the lid and into the back of her eye.

"We are terribly concerned that the insect colony not spread further.

"We are considering laser treatments and even removing the eye completely.

"We don't want to take the chance that they might burrow into the brain and kill her," the doctor said.

As for Gittu, she is hospitalized and said to be bearing up bravely through her nightmare ordeal.

"Make the bugs go away so I'm not sick anymore," she begged Dr. Panda recently. "My mama needs me at home."

Shoplifting degrees for poor students?

A student leader at one of England's most prestigious universities has suggested the school offer a course in shoplifting to help poor students make ends meet.

By JACK ALEXANDER

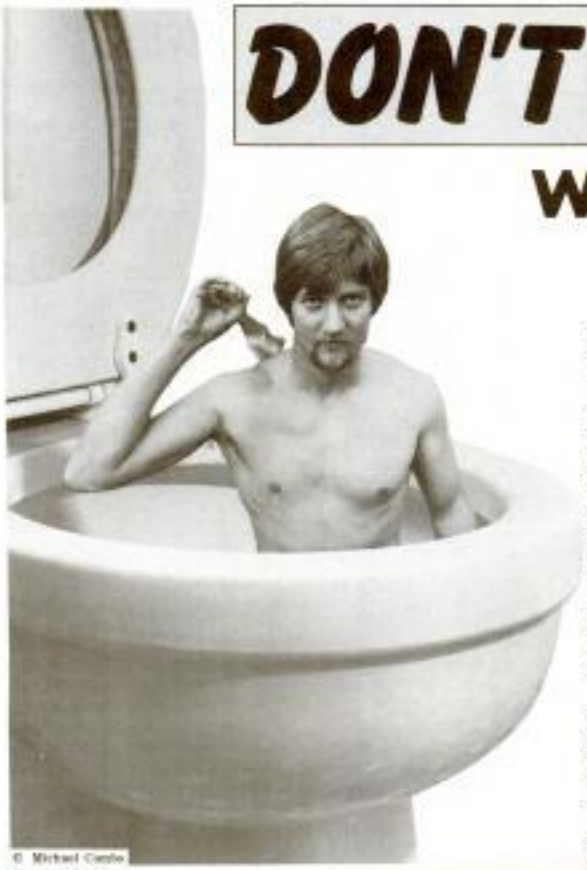
"Shoplifting is one good way of saving money," said Richard Lloyd, a senior at Bristol University. "Students are entitled to more than they are getting from the government and this is one way they can get it."

Lloyd's outrageous scheme would require the university to hire experienced crooks to teach students how to steal clothes, food, books and other necessities without getting caught. The university's student union would be required to compile a list of the best and easiest shops to steal from in Lloyd's plan.

"Students are entitled to a living grant of $6,400-a-year and we receive only $4,000," said Lloyd. "We have the right to obtain the remainder by whatever means we choose. Shoplifting is one good way."

Lloyd's idea also would require the student union to provide legal and financial support for shoplifting students who get caught by the cops.

DON'T FLUSH, MABEL!



Wacky new designer tub looks just like a big toilet bowl!

The hottest item of the 1990s for designer homes in Europe is a giant toilet that doubles as a bathtub.

By F. WILLIAM WRIGHT

Designers in Oslo, Norway, say their new La ToileT Tubs are selling faster than they can make them — at the equivalent of $2,200 each!

Cast out of imported porcelain, La ToileT Tub comes with its own simulated seat and lid, which can be folded down when the tub's not in use.

"We've been bowled over by the response," said Sven Henriksen, president of Dynamic Tub Designs. "It's been absolutely staggering.

"What started as a simple novelty item has been showing up in the bathrooms of some of the finest and most expensive homes around Western Europe," he said.

"My wife and I couldn't imagine taking a bath in anything else," commented one university professor in a letter to Dynamic Tub Designs.

"The kids can't wait until bath time now," wrote a mother of three children under the age of 5. "They just fit."

College students in London are reported to have even staged La ToileT Tub parties, according to the Oslo designers.

"It's just like the 1960s in America when college kids used to see how many people they could get into a Volkswagen Beetle or a telephone booth.

"The record to date is seven people with water in La ToileT Tub and 11 people without," he said.

At least one enterprising doctor's wife in Warsaw, Poland, has found an unusually creative way to use La ToileT Tub, according to a letter in the designers' files.

"I found it's great for doing a quick load of laundry," she wrote.

"I just put the clothes in, add a little soap and flush.

"Your La ToileT Tub agitates the clothes better than any washing machine and gets them a lot cleaner, too."

I bring home the bacon while my cheatin' hubby lives like a pig

Dear Dotti: My husband left me for another woman about six months ago but that's not the worst of it. Their money ran out after a few weeks so they up and moved in with me. I've gotten over most of my anger and jealousy, Dotti, but I can't cope with the mess they make of my house.

Neither of them work so they have all day to trash the place while I'm out making a living. And when I get home I still have to cook, do the laundry, wash the dishes and pay all the bills. This is really getting out of hand. Please tell me what to do. — Drowning in Longmont

Dear Drowning: Run, don't walk, to the nearest shrink. Any gal who supports her cheating husband and his mistress is sick, sick, sick!

Stinky exterminator is driving me buggy

Dear Dotti: Every three weeks an exterminator comes to my house to spray the bugs and while he does a good job, I've got a major complaint. It may sound silly but I'll just come out and say it: My bug man stinks! You'd think he would take a shower before going out on his rounds but his B.O. would knock down an elephant. How can I let him know how offensive he is without hurting his feelings or quitting my account? — Stunk Out in Crow River

Dear Stunk Out: If you breathed poisonous fumes for a living you'd forget to bathe, too. Give your bug man a break, hon. The next time he visits, leave the house — or put a clothespin on your nose!

Is it okay to wear women's drawers?

Dear Dotti: The price of men's underwear is so high that I wear ladies' panties because they're cheaper. I'm 32 years old. Is what I'm doing wrong? — Curious in New York

Dear Curious: If you're a man, yes. If you're a woman, no.

Bratty brother beats my butt

Dear Dotti: I have a BIG problem. My brother hits me all the time and it really hurts. I told my mother but she doesn't believe me. What should I do? — Beaten in Gaylord

Dear Beaten: March straight up to your mom and show her this letter. If she still doesn't believe your brother is abusing you, read a few books on boxing or karate, learn the moves — and beat the jerk to a pulp.

I'm out to get your job, Dotti

Dear Dotti: I try not to judge people but in your case I'll make an exception. You're crude, mean, unprofessional, uncouth and vulgar and if the people who ask for your advice had any sense at all, they'd look somewhere else for help.

I wouldn't say this unless I thought I could do the job better than you do. So be forewarned: Clean up your act and stop insulting people or I'll apply for your job — and get it! — Barbara in Virginia

Dear Barbara: Just send your resume directly to me, pinhead. I'll see that it's properly "filed."

I had to 'borrow' my mom's ring

Dear Dotti: I'm desperate and don't know what to do. My girlfriend got pregnant so I borrowed my mother's wedding ring and sold it to pay for an abortion. Now my mother is looking for the ring and I feel guilty. What should I do? — Sorry in California

Dear Sorry: Call the police and turn yourself in. You STOLE that ring, dirtbag. Now you've got to pay for what you did!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462

Confidential

Dear Starstruck in Hickock: Say what you like. For every gal who's slept her way to the top, 50 have slept their way to the bottom — and stayed there!

Dear Disgusted Wife in Ola: Stop flushing the toilet for your clod hubby and sooner or later he'll HAVE to do it on his own!

Dear Wealthy in Creston: I don't care how much cash you've got — you're still a butthead!

Dear Concerned in Carlisle: If your 26-year-old son gets up at 5 a.m. to watch television test patterns he's not eccentric, he's insane!

Dear Devastated in Medway: On a high note, the worst he can do is kill you!

Ask the Countess

Will we ever find our lost puppy?

Dear Countess: Our little mixed-breed dog Ruff ran away from home last week and my 6-year-old daughter is devastated. That pup meant everything to her, Countess, and she's done nothing but cry since he left. Can you help us find him? Please say yes. — Waiting in Kansas City

Dear Waiting: Your little dog got disoriented when he ran out of your house and tried, but failed, to find his way back. I contacted him telepathically and gave him the directional signals he needed to get home again. As you already know, he showed up yesterday — tired and dirty but happy as a lark!

NEIGHBO
KILLED O
MARRIAG

ONE of Huff's nastiest tricks was running a garden hose through the Bishops' window and flooding their living room. His campaign of terror finally drove Edie Bishop to divorce her hubby Fritz.

OR'S VENDETTA

OUR

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Starry-eyed bride Edie Bishop and her happy-go-lucky hubby Fritz shared a life of love and laughter — till the world's nastiest neighbor launched a reign of terror that tore their marriage to shreds!

Diabolical Denton Huff pretended to be a buddy. But under cover of darkness, he turned the once-carefree couple's dream life into a nightmare by:

- Smashing in the windows and doors of their cozy new home.
- Hanging their beloved bulldog Boris.
- Running a garden hose into their house and flooding the living room with more than 200 gallons of water.
- Poisoning their prize parakeets.
- Bashing their cars with a sledgehammer.
- Sending the nervous newlyweds dozens of poison-pen letters accusing them of carrying on racy extramarital affairs and worshiping the Devil.

"Denton acted friendly, but underneath he was so jealous of our happiness and our love for each other that he set out to destroy our lives — and he did a damn good job of it," said heartsick Fritz, 27.

"He harassed us constantly for more than a year, and we never once suspected it was him. Right up till the day he confessed, we'd have trusted him with our very lives."

DESPICABLE monster poisoned the Bishops' pet birds.

'He smashed our windows, sent us hate-filled letters & poisoned our pet birds'

Despicable Denton, 50, unleashed his terror campaign just weeks after the up-and-coming computer whiz and his lawyer wife moved into their new home in northern California.

"We heard a crash one night and discovered someone had smashed four of our front windows," angry Edie recalled.

"We called the police, and they told us it was probably just some young hooligans out raising hell. But after that, one terrible thing after another happened to us.

"A week later we found Boris hanging from a tree in the backyard. We were absolutely sick. And then the guy broke into our house and killed our poor, innocent birds. We really loved those birds, too."

Next came the hate mail — an unending avalanche of letters pieced together with words clipped from magazines.

"We were getting a note almost every day accusing us of the most vicious things," frustrated Fritz told a reporter. "In one of them, he said he knew we'd sacrificed our poor little animals to Satan.

"He accused us both of carrying on torrid romances with people at work — and he even claimed that I was having an affair with two other men.

"None of it was true, of course, but we'd been confiding in Denton all along, so he knew just enough to make all these stories sound believable.

"Finally the strain became so great it tore our marriage to pieces."

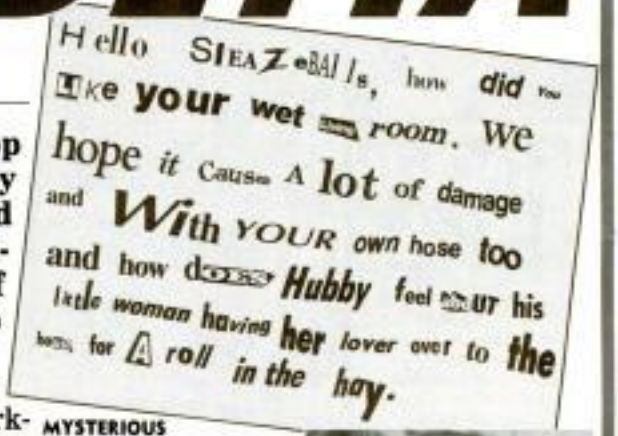
Teary-eyed Edie, 25, filed for divorce — and the day the decree became final, the beastly bachelor next door confessed his evil deeds to the cops.

"I sort of suspected Mr. Huff all along, but the Bishops insisted there was no way he could do anything like that," said a police investigator. "But I kept questioning him, and finally he admitted it drove him crazy living around a young couple who had nice cars and took fancy vacations when he'd worked hard all his life and couldn't afford any of that.

"I guess he decided if he was going to be a miserable old man, they were going to be miserable, too."

Dastardly Denton was sentenced to a year in jail for harassment.

UNSUSPECTING Fritz Bishop had his car window shattered.



MYSTERIOUS and hateful letters accused the newlyweds of cheating on each other.

EVIL neighbor Denton Huff was sentenced to one year in jail for harassment.

George Washington got no salary

. . . but he ran up an $11 million expense account!

An apparently generous George Washington agreed to lead the American Army against the British for no salary, saying he'd do it for expenses only — but the wily patriot charged our newborn nation a mind-boggling $11-million-plus!

What a deal for Washington — who should be known as the Father of the Expense Account.

Modern day bureaucrats couldn't hold a candle to our first President. He billed the Congress $449,261 — a sum equivalent to a staggering $11,231,525 in today's dollars.

"In expense account writing, Washington was second to none," declared Marvin Kitman, author of the book George Washington's Expense Account.

Among the incredible bills that Washington submitted for his eight years of service were:

- $27,665.30 for a trip his wife made to visit him at the front (equivalent to $691,632 in today's money).
- $14,653.60 in household expenses (equal to $366,340 today).
- $7,644 for five of the finest horses and a fancy carriage ($191,100 today).

What's more, while his soldiers were starving at Valley Forge, General Washington was enjoying sumptuous meals. He dined on such food as chicken, mutton, oyster, pears, veal and cucumbers — and got Congress to pick up the tab! And the general washed down all that fancy food with huge supplies of wine, which he also put on his expense account.

"It's hard to believe — it's one of the greatest deals any President ever made," said author Kitman, whose book includes excerpts from Washington's actual handwritten expense list.

And to give an idea of his fancy life-style, he ordered dizzying amounts of booze. In one 10-day period he purchased 217 bottles of Madeira wine for $918.99 — or $22,974 in today's money.

At the time, the pay of a private in Washington's Army was $6.65 a month — so the general's wine bill alone was equal to more than 10 years' salary for a private.

For the eight-year period he was at the helm, Washington's household bills averaged $260 a week — or $6,500 in today's money.

Congress paid all the expenses in 1784, after the war was won, without a whimper.

Chicken in a bottle!

Featherbrained farmer's zany gift idea really lays an egg!

By JOE BERGER

Birdbrained farmer Billy Bowes figures he's hit upon the perfect pet for the tumultuous times we live in — a no-muss, no-fuss chicken in a bottle!

Trouble is, batty Billy's been peddling his bottled biddies for more than four months now — and he hasn't sold a single one.

"I just don't get it. I really don't," sighed the flabbergasted father of three. "My kids love these things and I thought they'd sell like hot cakes.

"They're wonderful pets for people in a hurry. They can't run away, you never have to take 'em for a walk and the cost of feeding 'em is chicken feed.

"But to tell you the truth, they're starting to eat me out of house and home — because I've got 5,000 of them sitting out in the barn waiting to be sold."

Dingbat Billy hatched his bizarre scheme last fall after watching his 6-year-old son Wayne romping around their farm outside Athens, Ga., with a baby chick in an old-fashioned milk bottle.

"Little Wayne was teaching that chick to do tricks, but his momma told him to take it out of the bottle because it was going to grow so big it'd get trapped in there," the proud pop recalled. "I heard that and it was like a light bulb went on over my head."

So eager-beaver Billy, 41, bought 5,000 bottles, put a chick in each one — and sat back waiting for his chicken ship to come in.

But somewhere along the way, the farmer's fortune turned fowl.

"I figured I'd really discovered the pet of the '90s, something that'd be the next Hula Hoop or Cabbage Patch Doll," he groaned. "I put 'em on the market for $25 apiece and my biggest worry was I might not have enough supply to meet the demand.

"But so far I haven't sold a one. A few people have come by to look, but they just shook their heads and walked away.

"I showed 'em how easy it is to keep these pets clean and how easy it is to feed 'em, but people just aren't buying them.

"They buy ant farms and stupid Pet Rocks, but they don't want a chicken in a bottle. It doesn't make a lick of sense to me."

EGG on his face: Harebrained hick Billy Bowes thought he had the pet of the '90s — but no one's interested.

The scientists found that folks who breathed fragrances detected patterns accurately 80 percent of the time, while those who breathed plain air were accurate only 65 percent of the time.

"Our study has implications for air traffic controllers, long-distance truck drivers and others who must do monotonous but important tasks," Dember said.

The way you dance reveals the real you

The way you dance — and whether you dance at all — reveals a lot about your personality, according to psychologists.

Here's what the experts say your dancing style reveals about you:

By REBECCA SPALDING

Good-time Charlie or Charlene — These people dance nearly every number, sometimes with their eyes closed, fingers snapping and bodies swaying to the beat of the music.

"They're confident, sociable, fun-loving and independent people who don't care how others judge their dancing skills," said Dr. Sandra Haber.

Lovers — True romantics, their eyes never leave their dance partner. "Lovers are caring people who are sensitive and courteous."

Shy guy or gal — These people have to work up their nerve just to get out on the dance floor and they're likely to sit out the fast numbers. They're too worried to relax so their dancing will be stiff and mechanical.

"These people are inhibited, but they have active imaginations.

"They think, 'I'll probably bump someone, then everyone will laugh at me.'

"And that prevents them from loosening up and having a good time," said Dr. Haber.

Dr. Thomas Greening added: "These people also have a lot of inner courage — or they wouldn't be out on the dance floor in the first place."

Competitors — They constantly eyeball all the other dancers, picking out their weak points, judging them and even laughing at them because they aren't championship-caliber hoofers.

"These people are highly competitive," said Dr. Haber.

Hotshots — They're out on the floor for every dance, know all the latest steps and usually take up half the dance floor. They wear fancy, flashy outfits.

"Such people are competitive and aggressive," said Dr. Haber. They want to be the center of attention.

Non-dancers — These are quiet types who prefer good company and quiet conversation to the blare of a dance band, said Dr. Greening.

"They come to dances to give their partners the chance to dance with others," he said.

Pennsylvania man vows revenge on creep who killed his family

'HE OWES ME SIX LIVES!'

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

"I want to dissect him alive . . . pull him apart," says vengeful Mike Abt. "Just let him loose. I'll give him a lethal injection."

Mike's rage is aimed at George Geschwendt, a skinny weirdo who is serving six life terms in a Pennsylvania prison for slaughtering Mike's mother, father, brother, two sisters and a childhood friend.

"He owes me six lives. I want them now," said Mike, 36, a beer-drinking bruiser. "If he wants to talk to God, let me send him on his way."

Big Mike may soon get his chance at revenge. A U.S. magistrate has recommended the mass killer get a new trial because a judge goofed and didn't tell a jury at his 1977 trial that they could find the creep not guilty by reason of insanity.

As we reported in the April 2 edition of The NEWS, a jury recommended Geschwendt die in the electric chair, but Pennsylvania overturned its death penalty law.

KILLER George Geschwendt is in jail for ambushing five members of the Abt family one by one in their own living room. A judge's blunder may put the creep back on the street.

Mike said his life has been ripped apart since that tragic day in 1976 when Geschwendt, now 39, hid behind a piano in the Abt home in Bensalem, Pa., and massacred the family one by one.

Geschwendt claims he was waiting to ambush Mike and his brother Clifford because they had been tormenting him. But both of them escaped his murderous rage.

Instead, the coldhearted killer put a bullet in the head of each family member as they arrived home and tossed their bodies down a stairway into the basement. He even killed the family dog.

The cowardly killer got scared when the phone kept ringing and left before Mike and Clifford arrived. Mike found the carnage a few hours later.

A year later, Clifford was killed in an accident.

Mike gets glassy-eyed when he talks about his parents.

"They weren't just my parents. They were my confidants. They were my dearest friends. I died 15 years ago with the rest of them."

Angry Mike denies he or his brother picked on Geschwendt.

"If anybody did anything to him, it wouldn't justify what he since his family was wiped out. He has drifted between construction jobs and unemployment. He has slept in tents, stayed with friends and rented rooms in sleazy motels.

"I WANT to pull him apart," says vengeful Mike Abt, above. Mike's sister Margie and dad John, left, were brutally murdered by Geschwendt.

By BEATRICE DEXTER

Wrinkled oldster Beulah Trent has lived longer than anyone in the world — an incredible 149 years!

The ancient woman was born in 1842 and can remember life in the old South before the Civil War.

So fascinating are her stories of years gone by that historians plan to base a book on her recollections. She'll probably never be recognized as the world's oldest person because of a lack of official government birth records but she doesn't care.

"I know how old I am and my memories of my early years are better than my memories of recent times," says Beulah, an almost toothless oldster whose protective family won't reveal where she lives. "It's almost like my mind gets clearer with time.

"I remember life during slave times, I remember the whole terrible Civil War and I remember World War 1 and 2 and the Great Depression."

The toothless oldster was married in her youth to a Confederate soldier and gave birth to five daughters and one son. She has outlived her husband, her children, her grandchildren and all but two of her tors say she's still healthy as a horse.

A family Bible and other documents reveal the old woman was born March 3, 1842, in Fayetteville, Ark. At age 6 she moved with her parents to the Ozark mountains.

In 1857, Beulah married a young neighbor — Donald Trent — and gave birth to twins a year later. When the Civil War began Donald went off to war, leaving Beulah to tend their small farm.

"It was rough during the war and when Donald came home we was real poor," recalled the leathery-skinned granny, who lives with relatives in a small mountain cabin. "We heard Lincoln was shot and then we just went on about our business. We had all we could do to feed ourselves."

Beulah had two grandsons killed in World War 1 and remembers the hardships of the Depression like they happened yesterday. She recalls hearing on the radio about the bombing of Pearl Harbor and watching young Elvis Presley perform on her first television set.

The grand old lady says moonshine and pipe smoking helped her live to a ripe old age, but other than that she has no secret formula for longevity. And she says that she's ready to go whenever the Lord wants her.

"I got a husband, my children, my grandchildren and most of my great-grandchildren waiting in Paradise for me," Beulah says. "I'm looking forward to seeing them again."

Boy, 4, boiled alive!

A 4-year-old boy was boiled alive when he accidentally fell into a pool of scorching hot water from a ruptured underground boiler pipe.

Michael O'Brien and a playmate saw steam pouring from Washington Township, Pa., and investigated.

Michael fell in and suffered third-degree burns. He later died of infection from the burns.

GIVE ME THE GAS CHAMBER, SNEERS LOUDMOUTH KILLER — and judge does!

By DICK DONOVAN

Convicted killer Joe Cornell smirked, winked and gave a thumbs-up sign — when he was sentenced to die in the Arizona gas chamber!

The two-bit act of bravado came after Cornell tongue-lashed Judge Gregory Martin, then dared him to sentence him to death.

And that's exactly what Judge Martin did!

The bigmouth killer was convicted in the December 1989 shooting death of his 22-year-old estranged girlfriend, Margaret Daphnae Dad.

She was brutally gunned down shortly after arriving for work at the state Department of Transportation office in Phoenix.

The trial was repeatedly disrupted by the 25-year-old killer's rude and swaggering behavior. His pre-sentence harrage of insults hurled at the judge shocked and stunned the spectators who packed the Maricopa County Superior Courtroom.

"You are the poorest excuse for a judge that I've had the opportunity to appear before," the doomed blowhard ranted.

"I clearly challenge you to give me the death penalty, because I'll laugh in your face."

"That was a pretty dumb thing to say to a judge who holds your life in his hands," a sheriff's deputy said.

"He talked tough in the courtroom, but I flat guarantee you that he'll sing a different tune when he goes to the chamber."

The condemned killer was described by Deputy County Attorney K.C. Scull as the odd man out in a love triangle involving Miss Dad and her new boyfriend.

Cornell's death sentence will be appealed to the state Supreme Court.

DIRTBAG Joe Cornell gave a thumbs-up sign when he was sentenced to die.

EVIL DAD USES HIS DAUGHTER AS SEX SLAVE

— for 20 years!

A terrified young woman endured a lifetime of shame and torment until she was able to escape and tell the world — she was her father's sex slave for nearly 20 years.

Her disgusting dad not only had his way with her whenever he felt like it, but made her available to his friends, and he sometimes joined them in her bed.

By JACK ALEXANDER

"It's incredible that a father could be so cruel and uncaring to his own flesh and blood," said a police detective involved in the case in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. He declined to identify the father to protect the woman's identity.

The demented dad, 62, began molesting his daughter when she was 10. Regular intercourse began after her mother left when she was 15 and continued until she was in her late 20s.

She was threatened with bodily harm and even death if she didn't yield to his sickening demands or left him, according to Justice Hugh Locke.

His mental manipulation of the young woman was similar to a brainwashing carried out by a dictator. "He ruined the best years of her life," Justice Locke said.

He convinced his daughter that if she didn't do what he wanted, it meant she didn't love him. She was taught her role in life was to be sexually submissive to him.

Her forced escapades in bed bred two children, who were promptly turned over to an adoption agency.

The sexual nightmare continued until a year ago when the daughter escaped, took a bus to another city and called police.

The evil father admitted making his daughter his personal sex slave and was sentenced to a mere five years in prison, the maximum sentence for incest.

The father's conduct "violates every tenet of decent human behavior," said the judge. "Even beasts in the field know better."

Six things you should NEVER tell your mate

There are six things no one should tell their spouse, reveals a prominent marriage counselor.

By REBECCA SPALDING

1. Fears of infidelity — "Too often these fears are unfounded, and when you begin to ask the other person questions, they usually come out sounding like accusations," said Selma Miller, who's past president of the New York chapter of the prestigious American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy.

"Whether it's true or not, your spouse is going to take a defensive posture. And if it's not true, it could be very anger-provoking.

"A spouse who's repeatedly accused of infidelity might think, 'Maybe I should go ahead and commit the crime.' "

2. Sexual overtures made to you — If you're tempted to tell your spouse that someone's made a pass at you, ask yourself why you're planning to discuss it.

Are you just trying to make your mate jealous?

This can drive a couple apart by causing feelings of insecurity or anger.

3. Details of a boring day — If you have nothing interesting to tell your spouse, admit it.

Discuss ideas instead — politics, the effects of TV advertising on children, etc.

4. Complaints about your in-laws — "Most people, even if they criticize their own family, don't want it done by an outsider," said Miss Miller. "The person knows their own family and loves them despite their eccentricities.

"And criticism isn't usually very constructive because a spouse can't really help their family's faults."

5. Past affairs — If you're tempted to tell a spouse about an affair you've had before or during your marriage to get rid of your guilt — forget it! It doesn't work, said Miss Miller. Telling your mate isn't going to help your marriage or make the person love you the least bit more.

6. Things learned in strict confidence — Don't throw up something your spouse once told you in confidence.

"That destroys the single most important ingredient in marriage — trust," Miss Miller said.

Women's feet getting bigger

Women's feet are getting bigger and bigger, research shows.

In 1895, gals wore shoes ranging in size from 1 to 6. Today, the popular range of women's sizes is 5½ to 11.

The good news is that feet are getting slimmer.

In the old days, women commonly had shoe widths of D and E. Today, their feet are AA to C, with B widths most in demand.

And there are signs that feminine foot growth may be slowing down. Experts say that at the turn of the century, the U.S. population included many immigrants who had grown up with poor diets and little medical care.

Once they arrived in America, these folks' children flourished, reaching their optimal size — and developing titanic tootsies to match.

Terrified gardener: 'Why is this creature torturing me?'

A space alien raped my ELECTRIC BROOM

ARTIST'S impression of the extraterrestrial rapist.

A WEED EATER similar to this one was attacked by a space alien who returned recently for an electric broom!

By KARL BOVA

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico — A Mexican gardener is living in fear because the space alien that beat him to a pulp and tried to mate with his weed eater returned to his house — and raped his electric broom!

"I'll have no peace until that creature is dead," Oscar Diaz, 47, told newsmen. "I still can't figure out why he's torturing me.

"If he wants to mate with tools and appliances he ought to go to a hardware store."

The gardener's ordeal began when a bullet-shaped UFO appeared directly in front of his truck on an isolated dirt road last July.

As The NEWS reported at the time, Diaz swerved to avoid a collision and skidded into a field.

He was still behind the wheel when an extraterrestrial with glassy eyes, reptile-like face and unusually long arms approached his truck.

The creature allegedly dragged Diaz out of the cab, beat him up — then tried to mate with the weed eater he carried in the back of his truck.

"I thought I'd seen the last of him until somebody ransacked my house while I was at work on March 8," said the bewildered gardener.

"The next morning I heard gasping and grunting noises coming from my closet and when I opened the door I found the alien on top of my electric broom.

"He beat me up badly the last time we had a run-in so I didn't interfere. I ran out of the house and called the police on a neighbor's phone.

"But by the time they arrived the alien was gone and my electric broom was twisted like a corkscrew.

"I know it was the same space alien," he added.

"You never forget a face like that."

Diaz was hospitalized after his first encounter with the extraterrestrial and fears that the creature might return for another tool or appliance and attack him again.

Police Captain Jorge Lozano said detectives have investigated the gardener's complaint but have yet to confirm his story.

"Diaz has nothing to gain by lying but we simply don't have enough evidence to make a determination ourselves," said the cop.

"His electric broom was destroyed and there were several UFO sightings on the evenings he says the extraterrestrial came to his house.

"But at this point we cannot prove that the incidents are related."

. . . just 9 months after he molested my WEED EATER!

Sexy deodorants too fresh for protester

By DICK DONOVAN

Outraged Bob Demers was busted after cops said he started peeling off his clothes in a convenience store to protest a display of air fresheners which he claimed were obscene.

Clerks at the store in Putnam, Conn., called the cops after Demers raised a stink about the cardboard air fresheners of near-naked women. By the time police officers arrived, the 52-year-old protester had shed his jacket, shirt and undershirt.

"The guy came in and said we should put a sign on the door saying, 'Adults Only,' " a clerk told The NEWS. He said the Penthouse air fresheners are obscene.

"The fresheners do have pictures of near-naked women on them, but they're covered with a black strip. But we moved them to behind the counter to make him happy.

"Then he came back the next day and started harassing us about the Chippendale fresheners. They have pictures of men, but they're only naked from the waist up.

"He wanted us to move them, too, but we wouldn't do it. He started taking his clothes off. We called the police and they came and took him away. He spent the night in jail."

Demers said he wanted the store to remove the air fresheners or display an "Adults Only" sign.

"If they call it a family store, they shouldn't have things like that there," he declared.

Poll: Scotch is a classy drink

Scotch drinkers are seen by others as good-looking people who lead a high-status, upscale life-style, according to a recent study.

Gin and bourbon drinkers are thought of as "narcissistic" — in love with themselves — and beer drinkers are seen as "natural" individuals "not particularly concerned with fashion."

The study surveyed 250 college students who were told to imagine the personality and life-style characteristics of people who drank different types of alcohol.

MARKED LADY Patricia Ball has had more than 75 percent of her body tattooed. Her husband and son are tattooed, too.

Tattooed housewife is a walking art gallery — and she LOVES IT!

By MARTHA ATKINS

Patricia Ball has an unusual way of expressing herself — she's had over 75 percent of her body tattooed!

"I just love my tattoos," said the 42-year-old Paterson, N.J. woman. "They're my way of expressing myself. I call it my magnificent obsession.

"I always wanted to get a tattoo as a teenager but my parents wouldn't let me. Then when I got married, my husband said no, too."

But in 1982 when Pat was 34, she finally got her first tattoo.

"I was a single parent and there was no one to tell me no," said the soft-spoken blonde. "I was on vacation but didn't have enough money to go anywhere so I decided I wanted to have something to show for it.

"With $45 in my pocket I walked into Shotsie's Tattoo Parlor and had a small unicorn head tattooed on my chest. At the time it really hurt, but later on I knew it was something I wanted to keep having done."

Over the years, Pat has had over 75 percent of her body tattooed. On her back is a lush jungle scene complete with parrots and a waterfall. Her right leg is covered with an underwater sea life scene of tropical fish and plants.

Her left leg is a fantasy scene with a fairy princess riding on a giant bumblebee with other fantasy figures. And her right arm has an American Indian and other Indian symbols.

"They're all very diversified," Pat said. "Each section features a common theme rather than just single pictures.

"Being tattooed has opened up a whole new world for me. I get to travel and meet so many wonderful people. But the best thing was meeting my husband, James.

"He saw my picture in a magazine and wrote to me. We became pen pals and six weeks later he came to New Jersey to meet me. We ended up getting married on my birthday."

Pat isn't the only one in her family who likes tattoos. Her son David, 21, is tattooed over 30 percent of his body and her husband has some tattoos but is planning to have more.

"I gave David his first tattoo for his 17th birthday," she said. "For us, it's definitely a family thing."

Saddam Hussein look-alikes rescued from drifting raft

A dozen tired and starving Iraqis have been found on a drifting raft in the Persian Gulf — and every one is a double for Saddam Hussein!

The whipped Iraqis told U.S. Navy officials they'd been drifting on the raft for weeks and no one would stop and pick them up.

"Every time a ship pulled close enough to see who we looked like, they'd make an obscene gesture and sail away," one of the Saddam doubles said through an interpreter.

The Iraqis said they'd been selected as doubles for the Iraqi dictator and were sent to cities throughout Iraq and Kuwait to fool Coalition intelligence agents.

They said they had undergone extensive training and even plastic surgery to prepare them for their wacky assignments.

The Iraqis said they agreed to meet in Kuwait City as soon as the war started and to try to surrender to U.S. forces.

"We knew that madman Saddam didn't have a chance," said one of the 12.

1940s FAMILY ... LIVES 50 YEARS IN THE PAST!

Listening to The Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour, followed by a few hands of canasta and a late-evening snack of lemonade and ginger snaps — this is the ideal life-style for a 1940s family near Salinas, Kans.

George and Sarah Lawrence say they live a half-century behind the times on purpose.

"Everything was better in the '40s," said George Lawrence.

"We want our two kids to grow up with the right kind of values and life experiences," he said.

Only WW 2 era clothes and appliances allowed in this happy household!

Life in the Lawrence house is slow-paced and deliberate. Great attention has been paid to maintaining the appliances, clothes and entertainments of the era.

As a mail-order antique dealer, Lawrence works out of his house. He maintains an extensive catalogue of furniture and collector's items which he buys and sells around the country — all from his garage office, where his desk and files are set up next to a 1946 Kaiser.

"In the '40s, life revolved around the home and a few neighbors," Mrs. Lawrence explained. "Of course, most of OUR neighbors think we're a little nuts, but we don't care. We like life this way."

Monday is a wash day at the Lawrences. Mrs. Lawrence says she really enjoys using her old Westinghouse tub washer with its hand-turned clothes wringer. "I feel like I'm really participating more in getting my family's clothes clean," she says. "It's good for the biceps, too."

At meal time, the Lawrences enjoy an All-American menu — V-8 juice, roast beef, mashed potatoes, green beans and apple pie. "We don't overdo it," cautioned Lawrence.

"After all, much of the '40s was wartime, so we try to support the war effort as much as we can," he said. "We still buy bonds."

"Dad even rations the gas for the family car," offered Johnny, 11.

"I like the Sunday drives," said Susie, 9. "We go to the park and feed the ducks our dinner rolls."

"That's after the whole family reads the comics together," Mrs. Lawrence said. "We especially like Terry and the Pirates and Steve Canyon. Those comics show the kind of values we want our children to have.

"Clothes were so much more practical in the '40s," she added. "George has two nice Brooks Brothers suits to go with his button-down shirts, and I think my Dior dresses are nifty.

"They really compliment my waistline."

The Lawrences were planning a family sing-along later in the evening.

"Sarah plays the piano and we all get to choose our favorite songs," George Lawrence explained.

"My favorite is Beat Me Daddy, Eight to the Bar," Mrs.

OLD-FASHIONED values are the rule with the down-to-earth Lawrence family, shown above dressed in 1940s era clothing and hair styles.

DAD George Lawrence's 1946 Kaiser still looks brand-spankin' new.

BERHAMPER, India — An amazing psychic can turn a raging wild tiger into a gentle, purring pussycat — merely by looking the animal in the eye.

The fantastic talents of Landa Argawal, 36, who uses mind power to calm even the most ferocious beasts, have dazzled animal trainers and baffled a university veterinarian.

"I've been following and studying Ms. Argawal for many years now, but I'm still astonished and unable to explain scientifically the woman's telepathic powers with animals," declared Prof. Tanna Sonipooi, on the faculty of the veterinary school at the University of New Delhi.

In one astounding incident, a circus tiger named Kalo suddenly went berserk, and with foam dripping out of her mouth, began furiously attacking the bars of her cage.

Landa was called in to see if she could calm down the huge cat, which was scheduled to perform in one of the acts.

"Landa stopped a yard from the cage and stared at the beast," recalled circus member Kedhi Menson. "After a few seconds Kalo began moving backward.

"We saw Landa moving her lips, as she was talking to her, but we heard no sound.

"Very slowly, moving like a cat, she entered the cage. We were all in a cold sweat.

"Landa squatted next to her and began caressing her.

"After a little while Kalo licked her hand and dropped her big head against Landa. And later on, Kalo performed nicely in the show."

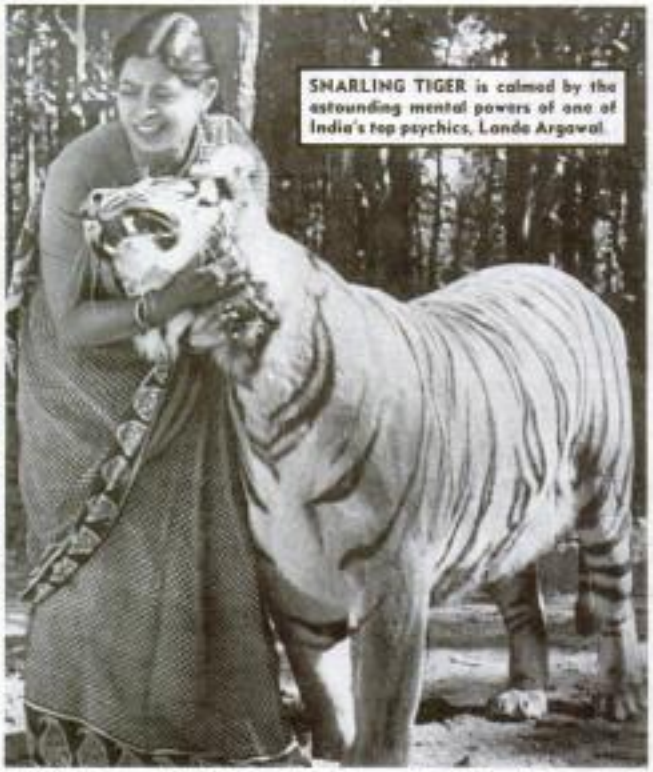
One man told The NEWS about another astonishing incident, when Landa quieted an enraged dog. Raji Taipoor said the dog, named Jaj, began attacking him when he tried to force it to eat.

"The dog was growling and howling like he had become part werewolf," Taipoor recalled. "Landa managed to catch Jaj's eyes.

"After a while the dog began to calm down. In a few minutes he was absolutely quiet. Landa walked into the kitchen, petted the dog, and it began acting perfectly normal. The nightmare was over."

Landa revealed that a holy man taught her to calm down fierce jungle beasts — using only the mysterious power of his mind.

"He disclosed to me that animals have extraordinary telepathic powers — they can read man's mind, and they can give and receive telepathic messages."



When big animals go nuts — they call her!

Good news, bad news

A majority of Americans, 63 percent, prefer to hear the bad news before they're told the good news, according to a poll conducted for Philip Morris magazine.

Corpse pays bills for six months

A man was dead for six months before he was ever missed — because all of his bills were being paid on time!

Cops in Amsterdam, Netherlands, discovered the man's corpse on a pile of garbage in his apartment after a janitor finally alerted them that his mail had not been picked up.

No one had missed the 51-year-old man because his bank automatically paid his rent and utility bills and his neighbors thought he'd been hospitalized.

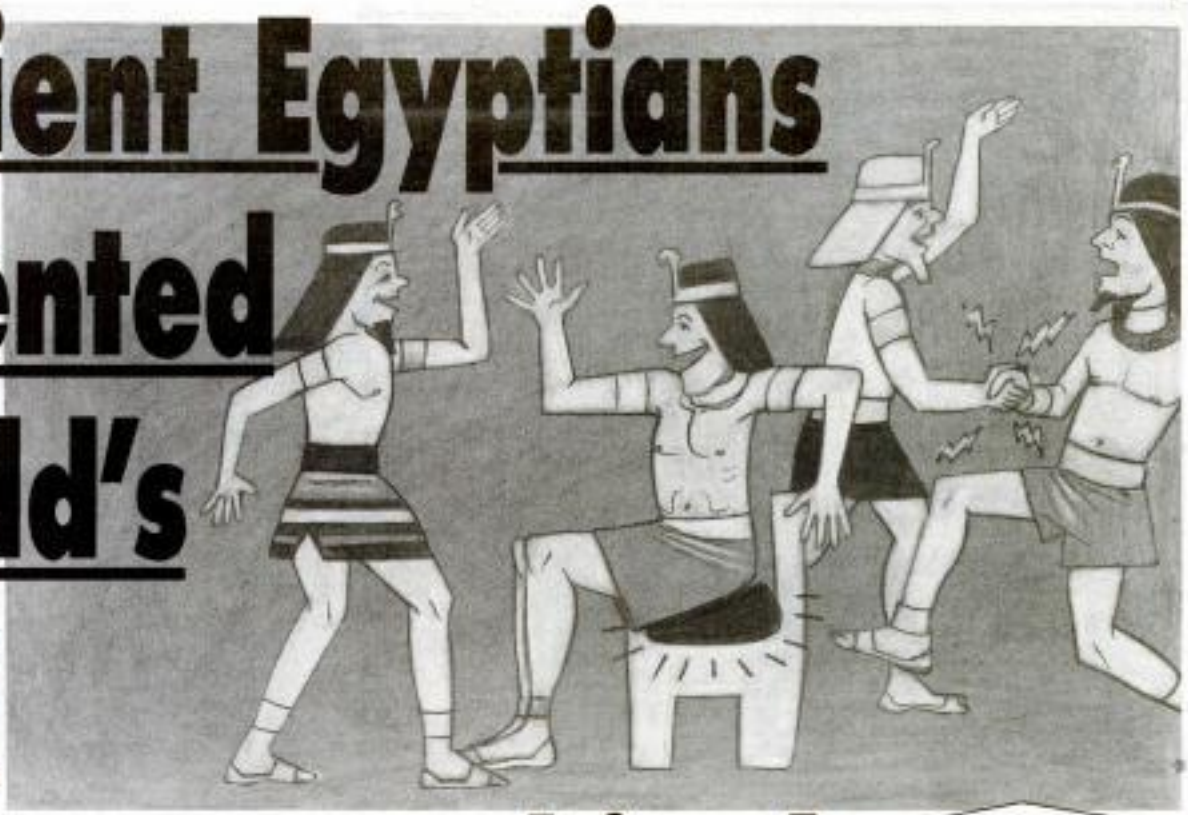
Ancient Egyptians invented world's first whoopee cushion!



THESE BIZARRE hieroglyphics were reproduced from an ancient catalog-like scroll discovered in the ruins of an ancient Egyptian temple. Note the incredible representation of a whoopee cushion, left, and a crude joy buzzer, right.

Archaeologists find 3,000-yr.-old gag items in temple ruins!

By NICK MANN
Special correspondent

The ancient Egyptians loved to play practical jokes and actually invented primitive versions of the joy buzzer, trick flower and whoopee cushion as early as 1350 B.C.!

That's the word from archaeologist Paul Renet, who found several gag items as well as a catalog-like scroll listing dozens more in the ruins of an old temple near Cairo, including:

- Fake vomit and cat poop.
- Bogus bugs and spiders.
- A food additive that starts out tasting sweet but turns horribly bitter.
- A gum-like resin that turns teeth green.
- A kaleidoscope that blackens the user's eye when he twists the viewing tube.
- Itching powder.

Dr. Paul Renet

The expert also found a crude "water gun" that aims straight but shoots to the right and an X-ray eyepiece that makes it appear as if the user can see through clothes.

"Ancient Egyptians were big on practical jokes and they clearly put a lot of time and thought into the development of new and better gags," Dr. Renet said. "Many of them were very much like the gags that are sold today. In that regard, they make a huge statement about human nature.

"It proves that even after thousands of years, some things never change."

Dr. Renet found the gags and catalog while sifting through the ruins of a temple that was built in 1350 B.C.

They were sealed in a ceramic urn and found to be in remarkably good condition in spite of the fact that they are over 3,300 years old.

"The Egyptians didn't have plastics or rubber so they created their gag items out of materials they had at hand," continued Dr. Renet.

"The whoopee cushion is made out of goat skin and the water gun and trick flower are nothing more than reservoirs and nozzles made from reeds and animal intestines."

Dr. Renet hopes to publish a full report later this year.

New paradise for car salesmen

Albania has lifted one of its stupid Communist rules and told people they can own a car if they can afford one.

A new government decree also lifts most customs duties on a wide range of consumer goods for private use. The Commies hope a quick fix of Western goods will halt a slide toward economic collapse.

No more yuppie$

The yuppie is dead, say experts.

That's right, folks. That fast-spending, name-dropping, label-conscious symbol of the '80s is now a thing of the past. Young upwardly-mobile professionals are getting older and they're changing to a more conservative, down-to-earth lifestyle, experts say.

"It's a natural evolution of getting older," explains Marissa Piesman, coauthor of the book, The Yuppie Handbook. "We can't go out and spend money all day. So we're living with less grandiose expectations."

The new trend has slowed consumerism and created an upsurge in saving around the country. And former yuppies are now looking for true value instead of flashy goods that make them look fashionable.

"A lot of people have acquired a lot of stuff," said Karen Meredith, head of a national organization for people born between 1946 and 1960. "How many VCRs and TVs do you really need?"

Father & son reunion — on death row

By JACK ALEXANDER

Jeff Landrigan never met his dad but they share one terrible fate — both are on death row for murder.

"Like father, like son. The meanness was definitely in his genes," said Arizona prosecutor Jeff Sandler. "He is cold, calculating and cruel."

DAD Darrel.

SON Jeff.

Both men condemned to die for murder!

Jeff, 30, is condemned to die for strangling skinny homosexual Chester Dyer to death with an extension cord in 1989.

Six years earlier he was sentenced to 40 years in an Oklahoma prison for the murder of a boyhood friend, who he stabbed in the chest during an argument. But he escaped to kill again.

While in prison the first time, a convict told Jeff he resembled another inmate, Darrel Hill, whom he had met earlier in an Arkansas prison. Hill was on death row in an Arkansas prison for slaying a gas station attendant.

Jeff corresponded with Hill and soon learned he was writing to his biological father, a man he never knew. Jeff was adopted at birth and grew up in Oklahoma with a drunken adoptive mother and a much too tolerant adoptive father.

That Jeff ended up on death row was no surprise to his adoptive dad, Edward Landrigan. "His mother said he was cursed. He was just hellbent to follow in Darrel's footsteps without even knowing him," Landrigan said.

"I really think it was in his genes. His real father, his mother and he were biological junkies. He was almost schizophrenic. His personality would change from charming to vicious."

To prosecutor Sandler, everything about Jeff was frightening.

"You look in his eyes, and it chills you, because there is nothing there," he said.

The cold-blooded young killer couldn't even stay out of trouble in prison. He was convicted of drug possession and of stabbing another inmate.

"He places little value on human life," said a probation officer. And that includes his own life. "If you want to give me the death penalty, just bring it right on. I'm ready for it," Jeff told the judge.

Superbrains get lost on 75-yard walk!

By JOE BERGER

Twenty-five of the world's brainiest folks stood around scratching their egg-heads in despair after getting totally, hopelessly lost — during a 75-yard stroll down the street!

The muddlebrained members of Mensa, a club for super smarties, were on an outing in Bristol, England, when their woes began.

All the airhead Einsteins had to do was toddle from a subway station to a museum exhibit right next door. But somewhere during that short hike, the lunks got lost.

"When they didn't show up, we got a little worried and went searching," said amused museum boss Kaye Kerr.

"And finally we found them, wandering around a side street like a bunch of lost sheep.

"They seemed so totally befuddled, so totally confused — and they looked so happy when somebody finally came and took them by the hand. All those fancy IQs hadn't helped them the least bit."

And incredibly, none of the wandering whiz kids — including their international president, Victor Serebriakoff — had thought to ask passersby directions to the museum.

"High intelligence is no insurance against being stupid," Serebriakoff admitted.

Catcher's mask

Two-year-old Matthew Krause plays a quick game of peek-a-boo with his dad's softball mitt. The fun-loving youngster was enjoying a sunny day in Wilmington, N.C.

Corpse marked by killer cassette

A cassette tape of music by a rock group called Death was found by the body of a man who had been beaten to death with a rock and a tree branch, authorities say.

The Seattle, Wash., victim was discovered in January and two young men have been arrested in connection with his murder. Police say the music tape included the songs Left for Dead, Born Dead, Pull the Plug, and Open Casket. They are not sure whether the tape was left by the dead man — 29-year-old Gary Burgess — on purpose or not.

How To Collect Social Security At Any Age

Cash-In on Government Give-Away Programs

(Special) A new book written by a former Federal investigator tells how every American can collect their share of the $250 billion that will be handed out this year by Uncle Sam. The book explains how to collect: social security before retirement, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, farm loans, unemployment, job training, even welfare and food stamps. Here are just a few facts covered:

- How 37 million Americans, averaging around age 30, collect monthly social security checks.
- How to make the entire family eligible for social security, even your youngest child.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of social security benefits.
- How almost 3 million children get monthly social security checks.
- How to qualify for disability pensions (over 3.5 million people collecting but thousands more eligible).
- How to work and still collect social security.
- How to find out how much you have paid into Social Security.
- How to know when to quit work and start collecting social security.
- How to get a lump sum payment.
- How to get a $500,000 loan to start your own business. (It's simple and the book tells you exactly how to do it).
- How to collect a $250,000 loan to buy a farm or ranch, including livestock and equipment.
- How to collect a $27,000 loan for a mobile home, including lot.
- How to collect a $15,000 loan for home improvements.
- How to collect over $400 a month to attend college, trade school or get on-the-job training.
- How to get free medical coverage, including glasses and dental care.
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to pay your apartment rent, including utilities.
- How to get up to a $100,000 small business loan, even if you are poor and unemployed.
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free Federal services.

With the help of this book, many families are now leading a more comfortable existence.

Although the book "How To Collect Big Dollars From Uncle Sam" could mean thousands of dollars to you, it is being offered at only $12.95 (plus $3 postage & handling).

GIANT HOROSCOPE

FOR WEEK OF
Mon., Apr. 22 – Sun., Apr. 28

By Countess Sophia Sabak

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Do you want to make something of yourself? Sure you do!

Now could be just the time to change everything to just how you want it.

Although you like to go it alone, it would be a good idea to ask for help this week whenever you even think it might be useful.

A happy experience could soon enrich your personal life.

This should be a good time for cementing those all important family relationships.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

This week could prove lucky for you — provided you're cautious. And it should help to be patient with family and friends when they don't understand you.

In fact, loved ones or close friends could prove to be a pain in the neck this week just when you're brimful of excitement and new ideas. Be calm. Everything should settle down.

The times look good for all kinds of ventures now. Perhaps an activity you thought of as being just a hobby could actually increase your income.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

The odds should be in your favor this week. You probably shouldn't hold back on a gamble that could pay off just as you'd like.

Someone who usually disagrees with all your decisions could go overboard in going along with you. But don't count on it happening regularly!

Someone you could have a good deal of feelings for may have been acting unfairly. It's not deliberate. They should give in to a reasonable request. Give it a try.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Careful! You could be asked to referee a disagreement and make peace.

Keep an open mind, listen to everyone, and your decision should be satisfactory to all.

Are you ready to make a sacrifice for future profit? If you offer yourself willingly, you could just find that you'll be repaid royally.

Welcome recognition could come from an unexpected — and loving — source. It could be just what you've been waiting for!

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Sell yourself and your ideas!

Whatever you do this week should meet with success.

The backing and help you may want should appear when the need is clear.

This could be a week to gamble a little, but don't wager blindly. Just indulge in a little flutter.

Romance should be highlighted. Isn't it time to plan something with a loved one, maybe an intimate evening alone, even if it's just in front of the TV?

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Don't miss the boat!

Everyone else seems to think the time is right for expansion, so really consider going along with them. All signs point toward successful growth for you.

But skimming over a few little money problems could mean future difficulties. Keep up to date on anything concerning money.

You have more power in the area of the heart than you probably realize. Don't be surprised if your heart's desire comes true eventually!

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Don't let the low-lifes get you down!

You may see nasty fault-finders putting rocks in your path this week. Work around them, as only you can, but don't let them slow you up.

Take pride in what you do. New markets for your talent could open up soon.

An unusual social event could happen this week, and if it does, you should have a great time!

Romance is in the air. Do something about it!

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Watch the monkey business!

Make sure your behavior is beyond reproach this week. Someone could be looking you over, and you know their opinion could matter.

Lend a hand to somebody who's doing less well than you are. This could be the beginning of a relationship that could really work.

If you've been indulging in an all-work-and-no-play attitude toward life, you'll find that if you plan some playtime, your spirits could improve — a lot!

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

This promises to be a week when your impact on others could be great. But hold onto yourself and don't let it go to your head.

Work on showing more concern toward a loved one's problems. You love to win, but it's probably best to back off in this case.

Never fear! You'll still be thought of as a winner!

Good luck should be yours in money matters, if you leave your cash right where it is. Now's not the best time for a gamble.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Keep those eyes open!

You could have a chance to multiply your money this week. Since this could be a one-time chance, don't let the opportunity slide by.

Keep in mind that actions do speak louder than words, and you generally know all the right things to say.

Close relationships don't just happen.

They are built up with the bricks of love and concern. Work on your building!

if your birthday is this week . . .

No more just sitting back and letting life come to you. This is your year to really get involved.

Reevaluate plans for your future and make it what you want. There should be several open paths. Explore all the possibilities before making a decision.

You should feel free and happy this year. Be ready to give your all to a good relationship.

Your attractiveness to all around you should be truly enhanced this year.

Money problems should be small ones that you should scarcely notice.

Listen to the applause — for you!

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You should be feeling pretty self-confident this week.

Let everyone know you're interested in taking on more. You won't be disappointed — nor will they!

Relationships may be stirred up. But it shouldn't be anything you can't handle with one hand tied behind your back.

Just remember to be kind and nobody should get hurt.

Hold onto your money until a sure thing comes by — and it ought to be soon enough to make you happy.

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

If unfinished business has been giving you some sleepless nights, get your act together and work out whether it should be dropped or pursued.

You're capable of making the right decision and you know it deep in your heart.

A loved one could be feeling confused. You ought to think twice about getting involved. Just let them know where you stand.

If something exciting comes your way, go for it in a big way.

Man's yen for woman's red shoe lands him in jail

By CELINE D'ARGVILLE

Wacky Gerald Monceaux desperately wanted a ruby-red shoe he saw on a strange woman he passed on the street, cops say, and his sole-searching cost him $3,200 and a stint in jail on suspicion of attempted burglary!

The 24-year-old cabbie was with a buddy when he spotted a well-heeled young woman walking through his neighborhood wearing the red pumps, police charge. They say that for some reason Monceaux fell for her footwear and bet his friend about $100 he could get one of her shoes.

"He didn't know the woman's name, but he knew where she lived," said inspector Yves Blanchet of the Montpellier, France, police department. "He went right over to the woman's apartment and banged on the door.

"When she answered the door he asked for her red shoe. She refused, so he offered to pay her up to $100 for the pump. She became frightened and threw him out, but he didn't give up easily."

Cops say that after his victim gave him the boot, Monceaux still pined for her shoe — and actually acquired a passkey to her apartment so he could sneak in that night and grab his prize. But during the break-in he woke up the unidentified woman and she called police, according to inspector Blanchet.

"We found him in the lobby of the woman's apartment house, still trying to figure out how to get the shoe," he said. "We arrested him and charged him with breaking and entering. I asked him why he didn't just get another red shoe so he could win the bet, but he got very indignant and told me he didn't think that would be honest!

"He wound up spending a week in jail before he scraped up $3,200 for bail. We looked up his arrest record and found out he'd been jailed once before — for assaulting a woman and running off with her shoes."

LATEST FAD: ENORMOUS PIERCED EARRINGS — FOR INFANTS!

TRENDY tot sports this gigantic jewelry.

Baby doctors and children's rights groups are up in arms over the latest fad to sweep America — piercing newborn babies' ears and forcing them to wear humongous dangling earrings!

Incredibly, trendy moms are so eager to have their daughters sport the latest fashion that they're having their baby girls' ears pierced when they're only a few weeks old and then weighting them down with the heavy earbobs.

"It's nothing short of child abuse," asserted pediatrician Ralph Matthews. "I don't know what these parents can be thinking of. Some of these babies are only a few weeks old.

"It's bad enough that mothers are having their babies' ears pierced when they're so young, but the fact that they make them wear these huge clunky baubles is barbaric."

But moms who like the bizarre fashion trend are poohpoohing the experts' charges of child abuse.

"I don't know what all the fuss is about," said mom Arlene Hunter. "I had my daughter Ann's ears pierced when she was just 2 weeks old and she didn't cry or fuss a bit.

"And even though Ann wears earrings a lot bigger than you usually see on babies, they don't seem to bother her. In fact, she likes to pull on them and listen to them jingle.

"It's not like I'm punching a hole through her nose and making her wear a bone. Besides, Ann's my child and it's no one's business whether I have her ears pierced or not."

'It's child abuse!' critics complain

Children's rights groups contend babies should not be subjected to the cruel practice until they're old enough to decide for themselves if they want to have it done.

"I know ear piercing is an accepted practice in many cultures but I think it's cruel and inhumane," said Helen Mays of Mothers Against Child Abuse. "All you have to do is walk past a mall shop and listen to the girls screaming their heads off while their ears are being pierced to know it's child abuse."

Experts tell:

How to beat loneliness

. . . IN 30 MINUTES FLAT!

You can beat loneliness in 30 minutes flat and never feel left out again by following some super tips from the experts.

By THOMAS CLARK

To kick off your campaign against loneliness just turn on your TV and get involved with what's happening on the screen.

Start with a game show like Jeopardy! or Wheel of Fortune.

Pit yourself against the contestants — and keep track of what you win.

Because you're playing with real people, your loneliness will begin to vanish straightaway. By the end of the show 30 minutes later, you'll feel totally engaged with your surroundings — and be well on your way to beating loneliness for good.

Here are 21 more tips from psychologists, clergymen, researchers and just plain folks who found surefire ways to beat loneliness themselves:

1. Listen to radio and television talk shows and phone your opinions in. It's also good to take in at least one new show a week to break up your routine.

2. Let the TV or radio entertain you AND a friend. Find out if someone likes the same shows that you do and invite them over to watch.

3. Take up bowling, tennis or golf. Join a health club. You might even offer to coach a kids' team.

4. Read newspapers to find what interesting activities are happening in your community — and attend them.

Meals on Wheels, hospitals, Scouts and other groups are good places to start.

6. Get out of the house. Take a walk. Go to the zoo or a museum. The outings break up your routine. And just seeing other people will often banish those feelings of loneliness.

7. Accept any and all invitations and bring someone into your own house at least once a month. The more you do with other people, the less lonely you'll feel.

8. Be a good neighbor. Offer to help yours whenever the opportunity arises and don't be afraid to ask them to help you.

9. Be quick to compliment other people. It's the quickest and easiest way to get them talking to you.

10. Stay in touch with old friends and relatives. Call, write letters, visit — do anything to stay in touch.

11. Learn the names of people you come into contact with regularly — like bank clerks, cashiers, delivery people — and address them by name every time you meet. As you widen the circle of people in your life, loneliness will vanish.

12. Attend garage and yard sales regularly. You'll meet lots of friendly people and find plenty of opportunity for conversation.

little bit every day. Shop at a different store. Leave for work 30 minutes early. You'll see different people and the change will stimulate you.

14. Show interest in other people's lives. Ask about their families or activities. Most will be delighted that you're interested.

15. Find a pen pal through newspaper and magazine ads and exchange letters regularly.

16. Patronize the same coffee shop, restaurant or coin laundry habitually. You'll gradually make the acquaintance of other regulars.

17. Invite others along when you run errands.

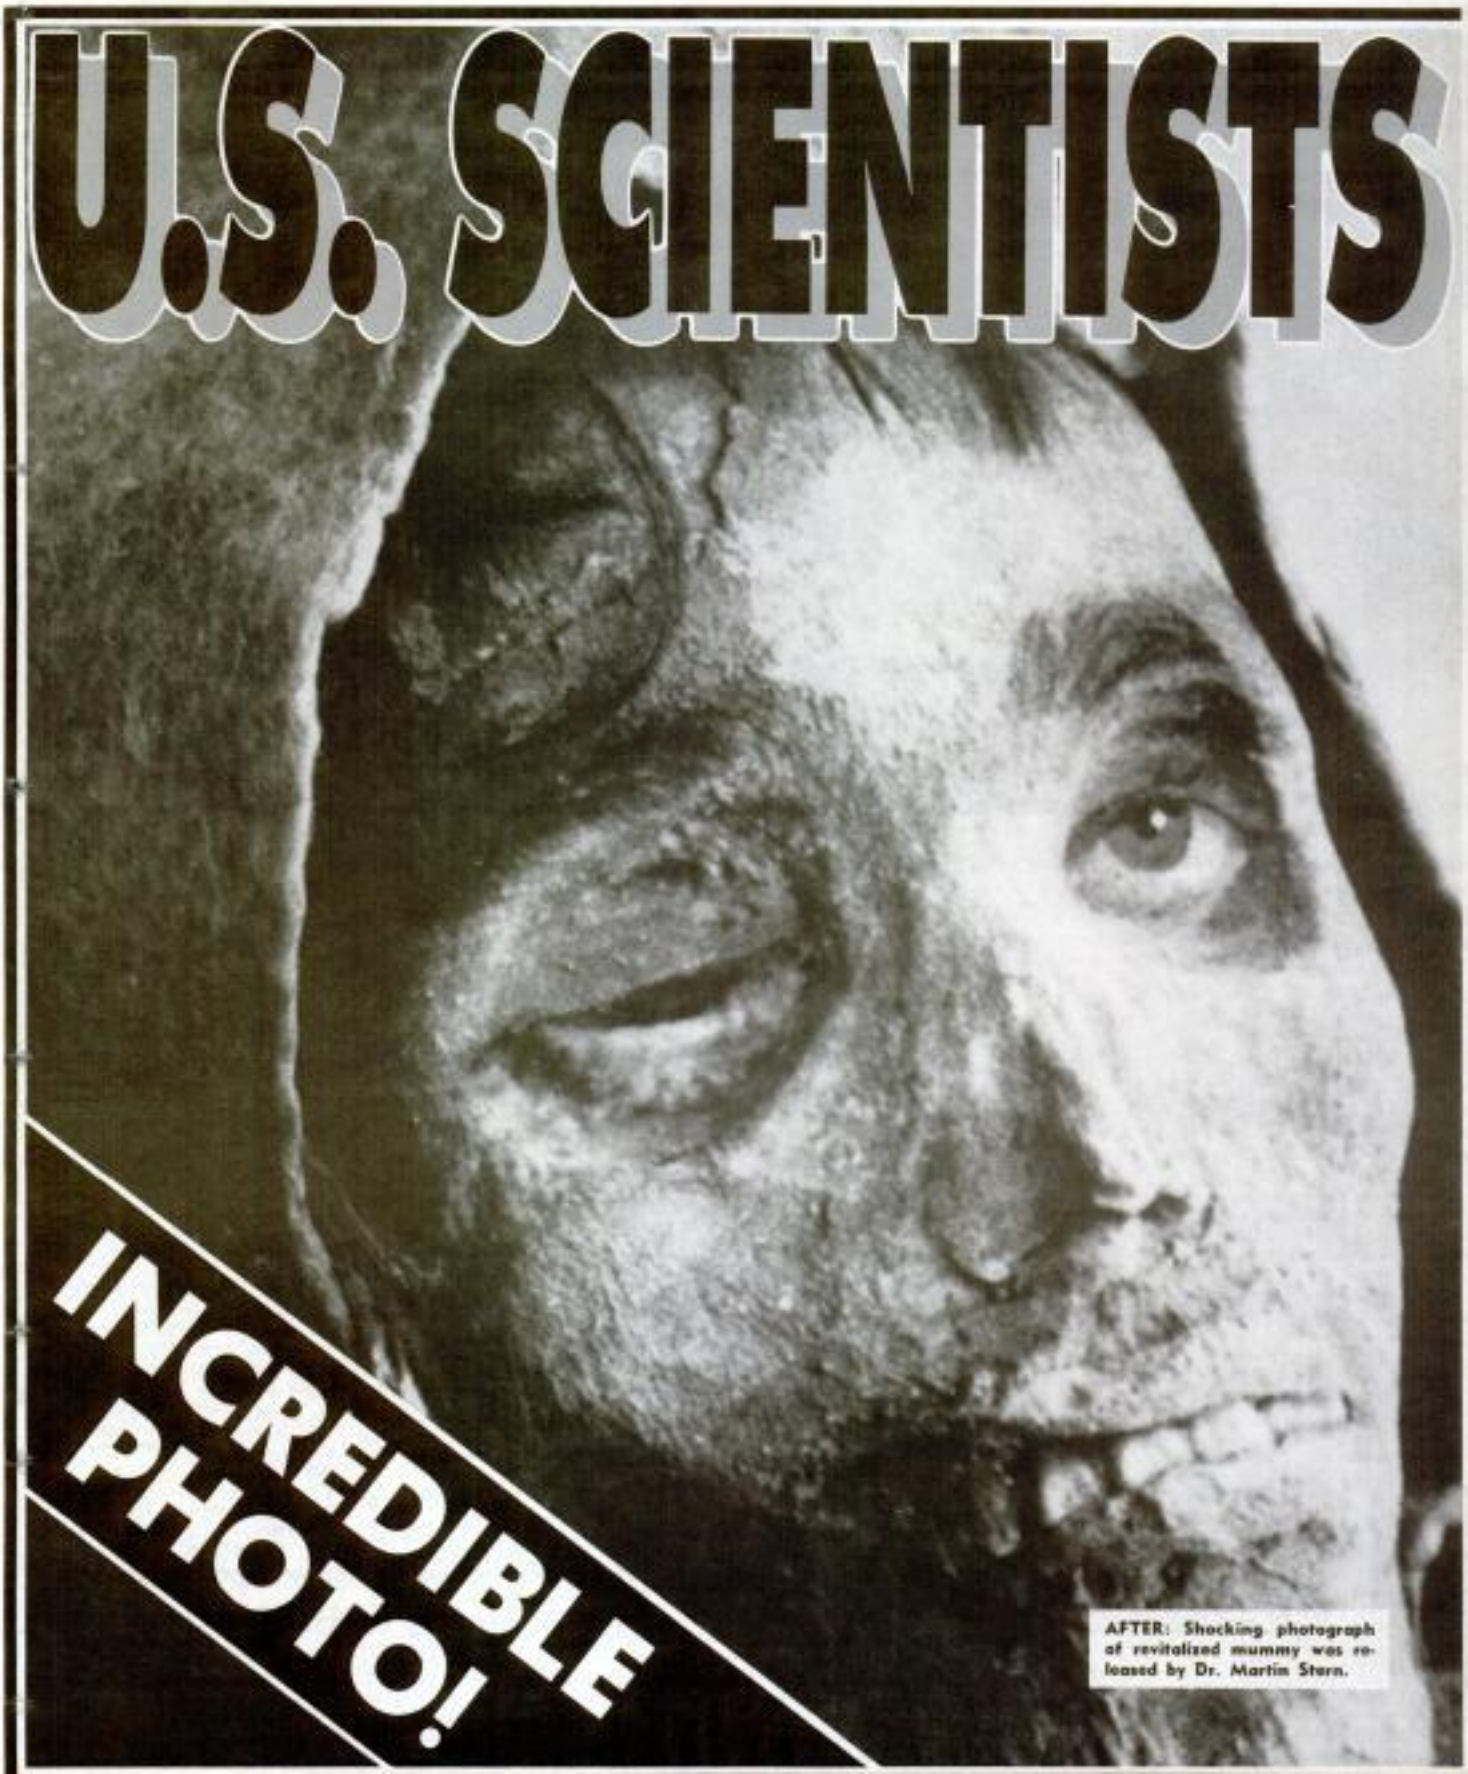
18. Get a pet. A dog, cat, bird — even a goldfish — can pick you up when you're feeling down.

19. Spend time at shopping malls. You'll meet people on benches or walking around and you won't have to buy a thing.

20. Send for free catalogs and brochures. You'll get lots of fresh mail and be way too busy reading to dwell on loneliness.

21. Learn how to break the ice. Be ready to bring up topics that will make people loosen up and talk with you. Try talking about the weather, a popular TV show, the day's news — anything to spark conversa-

U.S. SCIENTISTS



INCREDIBLE PHOTO!

AFTER: Shocking photograph of revitalized mummy was released by Dr. Martin Stern.

BRING MUMMY BACK TO LIFE!

By JOHN GLEASON

American geneticists are bringing a 500-year-old mummy back to life in a research facility in the Arizona desert.

That's the word from biologist Martin Stern, who claims to have been part of the secret project until he resigned over "moral and ethical concerns" on March 17.

Dr. Martin Stern

"The experiment is succeeding beyond anyone's expectations and that is why I'm having big problems with it," Dr. Stern, 57, told a handpicked group of science journalists in Phoenix.

"It was one thing to attempt to regenerate the mummy and another thing to see that it was actually beginning to happen.

"Once I realized that we had a literal power over life and death I bailed out. I'm a scientist — a damn good scientist. But I don't want to play God."

As incredible as they might sound, Dr. Stern's shocking allegations are clearly in line with recent advances in the field of genetics.

The regeneration of "dead" tissue is routine in laboratories around the world, although this is apparently the first time that anyone has tried to revive a thinking, breathing human being instead of simple tissues or cells.

"This is clearly one of the most ambitious projects undertaken to date," said Dr. Stern, "and the regeneration process itself is enormously complicated.

"But suffice it to say that infusions of blood, water and nutrients coupled with an electrification procedure has indeed begun to revitalize the mummy.

"Portions of its brain are showing signs of life and one eye is completely open," said the scientist.

"Small patches of flesh are also coming around and the mummy's ear, ankle, knee cap and several fingers are as vibrant and supple as my own."

Dr. Stern refused to name the privately-owned research group that is experimenting with the mummy but did release pictures that indicate the creature is, in fact, coming back to life.

The mummy was stolen from an 500-year-old Incan tomb in Peru last April, he added, and was smuggled back to the United States in July.

"The ultimate goal is to revive the mummy as a monument to the superiority of man over nature and death," said Dr. Stern.

"I felt it was my sworn duty to come forward and alert the public.

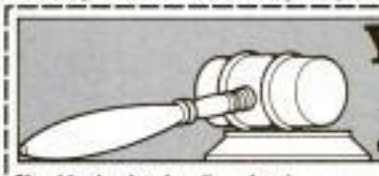
"If there is an outcry, if enough people are opposed to this kind of Frankensteinian science, the researchers in question may stop or suspend the project.

"We have no right to tamper with a situation or condition that God has ordained," he added.

"Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I happen to think that a human life is God's property — not man's."

Shocked doc blows whistle on top secret experiment!

BEFORE: Deteriorated 500-year-old mummy was smuggled into the U.S. after it was stolen from an Incan tomb in Peru.



Should scientists be allowed to ignore moral and ethical standards in their attempts at playing God and reviving the dead, or should this project be canceled once and for all? Send your thoughts to: You Be the Judge, Weekly World News, 600 S.E. Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Hey, gals — lovemaking is GOOD for headaches!

Women who beg off sex when they have a headache may be missing the boat — because a little hanky-panky may actually make a lady's headache go away.

linois University interviewed 51 women who say they make love even when they have a migraine, and nearly half of them said sex actually eases the pain.

says stimulation of the female sex organs may trigger the natural pain-fighting mechanism that helps women through childbirth, Longevity magazine reports.
